BLACKMAILERS TOOK $150,000 FROM LAWYER

The Boston American has obtained details concerning the sensational charge made by former Attorney-General Allen to the Legislature that he was frustrated in an attempt to prosecute cases of extortion which have hitherto been kept secret, involving some of Boston's most prominent citizens who had been entrapped by vampires and forced to pay $400,000 for silence.

Involved in these cases, according to information in possession of Mr. Allen, are:

1.—The consular agent of a foreign nation who was lured to a room in the Copley-Plaza Hotel by a pretty Boston vampire, named Phyllis Allen, arrested on the charge of a fake husband and forced to disgorge $125,000.

2.—One of the foremost members of the Massachusetts bar who was entrapped with an actress, residing in the Back Bay, and relieved of $150,000 to save his family from humiliation.

3.—A State street merchant, recently retired, who became involved with a girl of tender years, and was forced to pay $15,000.

Mr. Allen was solo to the Legislature informed that body that he had been prepared to prosecute those hitherto unknown cases before the Special Grand Jury, but withdrew them after receiving information that caused him the Grand Jury was corrupt, having been reached by persons friendly to former District Attorney Pelletier and former Attorney Daniel H. Coakley, the objects of Mr. Allen's prosecution.

This new evidence is incorporated in the defenses of William J. Corcoran, disbarred lawyer, former district attorney for Middlesex County and director of Boston's infamous blackmail ring, part of which was given to readers of the Boston American yesterday and to the readers of other Boston newspapers today.

FORCED TO PAY $125,000.

A former consul in Boston, married and with a family, according to Corcoran, was forced to pay $125,000 to cease publicity and prosecution by the Coakley-Pelletier ring.

This dignified agent for a European country was trapped by the shakedown syndicate aided by the fair and alluring Phyllis Allen, who for a time was as active in the blackmail ring activities as Brownie Kennedy.

The consular agent was found in a room with Miss Allen at the Copley Square Hotel in 1916. A group of raiders burst into the apartment by prearranged and dramatic plan.

In the group were big, well-dressed men who posed as detectives, police officials and the injured husband. The foreigner, socially prominent and ignorant of the underworld methods of Boston, was scared into submission.

He was told that $125,000 was the price of silence and immunity from criminal prosecution. He surrendered all the available cash he could raise and forced to pay the balance.

ALCOHOL DEALERS AID BOOTLEG RING

Washington, Jan. 18. — Grand Jury action may be taken against some of the largest distributors of industrial alcohol in the country, it was said today at prohibition headquarters. Acting Prohibition Commissioner Jones charged these distributors with responsibility for a large volume of the bootleg liquor recently turned loose in big cities.

Millions of gallons of this alcohol are said to have been diverted to illegal channels. Prohibition officials said an investigation is under way. Scores of permits are being cancelled.

STRIKERS SAVED FROM LYNCHING

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 18.—Four striking shopmen of the Rock Island Railroad, charged with participation in the murder last week of Guy Cornwell at Trenton, Mo., were rushed here today to prevent lynching.

They are in the county jail. Cornwell, a shopworker, was beaten to death.

GERMAN MARKS AT $1 FOR 23,800 TODAY

New York, Jan. 18.—German marks here today were .0042 cents or about 23,800 to the American dollar, a depreciation of 50 per cent. in four business days. Today's dollars worth would have cost $6,664.40 at the prewar rate of exchange. The day the European war broke out the mark was quoted here at twenty-four cents. When the United States entered the war in 1917, the rate had dropped to about seventeen cents. No official transactions were recorded while we were at war. When business was resumed July 15, 1919, the mark sold for eight cents.

CONNECTICUT TO PROBE NEW HAVEN

Hartford, Jan. 18.—By a resolution offered in the House today the joint committee on railroads is directed to investigate the disreputable service of the New Haven Railroad, which hampers legislators attending sessions. The committee is invested with power to compel witnesses to appear before the bar of the House for punishment.

SCORES GOV. SMITH FOR LARKIN PARDON

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Condemnation of Governor Smith's action in pardoning James J. Larkin, Irish agitator, who was sentenced to five years in prison upon conviction of criminal anarchy, was voiced today by Senator Clayton R. Lusk, Republican leader of the upper House. He said: "Larkin was convicted under a section of the penal law adopted after the assassination of President McKinley. He was charged with advocating the overthrow of organized government by force, violence and unlawful means."

14 FRENCH KILLED IN MOROCCAN AMBUSH

Paris, Jan. 18.—A report that a French detachment had been ambushed at Taza, French Morocco, was confirmed by the Ministry of War today. The losses were two French officers and twelve men killed and nine men wounded. The French troops were attacked by surprise in a ravine by a band of insurgents.

RIVER PORT SEIZED IN GERMANY

French Take Control of Great Double Harbor of Rhine and Ruhr

By International News Service

Paris, Jan. 18.—French military authorities today seized the harbors of Ruhrort and Duisburg. Barges and boats are being requisitioned along the Rhine to carry coal, coke and supplies.

Ruhrort lies at the confluence of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers, sixteen miles north of Dusseldorf. Duisburg is on the Rhine about a mile below Ruhrort. The two harbors are practically one, together forming the biggest interior port in Europe.

The Germans are seeking to foil the French requisition plans by not returning empty railway cars to the Ruhr. Germans said it was certain all the mechanical staffs would quit the moment the French attempted to run the mines.

French Seize Coal Consigned to Germans

Gelsenkirchen, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Seven barges carrying coal destined for cities in Westphalia, were stopped by the French while traversing the Rhine canal here today, and reconsigned to Strassburg by way of Ruhrort.

Dortmund, Jan. 18.—One hundred and twenty cars laden with coal, consigned to the interior of Germany were halted and diverted to Metz.

Report Russians Massing Along River Dvina

Stockholm, Jan. 18.—Reports of military activity in the Dvina River region of Russia (east of the former Baltic provinces) are printed by the newspaper Tidningen today.

It asserts that the military district of Smolensk has been declared in a state of war, that all the Soviet troops garrisoned at Vitebsk and Smolensk have been sent southwest (toward the Polish frontier), and that passenger traffic on the railway between Polotsk and Mohilev (south of Vitebsk) has been suspended and the trains requisitioned for the military.

Fortifications are being built in the Dvina district, the newspaper also says it has learned.

France Sees Peril to Peace of Germany

Paris, Jan. 18 (By Associated Press).—The French Cabinet today discussed the Ruhr situation, but the

RESCUE 25 AT SOUTH END FIRE

Civil War Veterans Among Those Aided to Safety by 2 Heroic Patrolmen

Twenty-five persons, including women and two Civil War veterans, one a cripple, were rescued by policemen during a fire today in the four-story brick structure at No. 1403 Washington street, corner of East Dedham street, South End.

The fire started in the kitchen in the rear of the second floor occupied by Dennis O'Connor and Lieutenant-Colonel James Strange, veterans of the Civil War. Strange is a cripple and was led to the street by Patrolmen Patrick Healy and Michael Farren of the Dedham street station.

The fire was discovered by the patrolmen.

When they saw smoke issuing from a window they ran to the nearest box and then rushed back to the building.

Going inside, they awakened and guided out all of the tenants. Many of the sleeping occupants were unaware of their danger and were obliged to flee in scanty attire.

While leading the rescue work the two patrolmen discovered the war veterans on the second floor still asleep. Flames were sweeping through the kitchen of their apartment.

Groping their way through the smoke and flames the patrolmen succeeded in reaching the two men and carrying them to safety.

Damage amounted to about $500. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

POOR COAL SHUTS SCHOOLHOUSE

Coal delivered to the Francis Parkman School, on Walk Hill street, Forest Hills, proved to be of such inferior quality for heating purposes that the school was closed today.

Head Master Arthur Stanley dismissed the pupils for the day and then complained to the business department of the school committee.

The department promised to remedy the defect today by sending down a better quality of fuel in readiness for opening tomorrow.

DIVORCE GIVEN WIFE YANKED FROM AUTO

When William Bruhmeller yanked his wife from another man's automobile while she was on her way to church and then beat her, she decided it was time to leave and seek relief in the divorce courts.

So Mrs. Frances Bruhmeller of No. 4 Whitfield street, Dorchester, testified in Middlesex divorce court, East Cambridge, today. Previously she had told of learning of another woman and interviewing her rival in a home furnished by her husband.

She accused her husband of cruel and abusive treatment which took the form of frequent beatings which were especially severe after she had accused him of philandering. She obtained a decree nisi. The case was not contested.

The suit of Mrs. Josephine Cairnaglis of No. 75 Waverly street, Cambridge, on grounds of non-support and cruel and abusive treatment, is being contested by her husband, Anthony.

The plaintiff told Judge Hall that whenever she begged her husband not to gamble away his earnings, but leave some for living purposes, that he would strike her. After more than ten years of marital strife she quit and left him a note. The read:

"I am going to go home. I can't stand the way you treat me. When ever I ask you for a quarter you make me feel like a beggar. I am going to work and support my children."

LENOX STREET BLAZE ROUTS 14 FAMILIES

Fourteen families were driven out by a two alarm fire in a two-story block at Lenox and Parnell streets, South End today. Fire started, it is believed, in No. 19. Flames spread either side to Nos. 17 to 21 and quickly raged out four through the house to No. 9.

Patrolmen Walter E. Melntee and Frank Sullivan assisted many women and children out. While Mrs. Margaret Dufficy of No. 17 was urging with threatenees to be allowed to return to her apartment to get papers, her sister slipped on the ice, and was hurt.

Among the rescued was Patrick Dolard, ninety-eight years old.

Damage was estimated at $15,000. Mrs Ruh Schwartz, No. 19, and Dr H A Nash thrown were among the heavier losers.

NAME RICH KLANSMAN IN DEATHS

Mer Rouge Church Member Seen in Mob That Slew Daniel and Richards

Bastrop, La., Jan. 18.—Newt Gray, a wealthy farmer and churchman, was a member of the masked party which, on August 24, held up Watt Daniel and T. E. Richard on the highway between Bastrop and Mer Rouge, according to Fred Eubanks, testifying today at the open hearing into the case.

Eubanks said he resided near Newt Gray's home and was a visitor in Bastrop on August 24.

"Returning to your home that day were you held up?"

"Yes, sir. Men wearing black masks held me up."

"Did you recognize anyone?"

"Yes, sir; Newt Gray."

Eubanks said he later was permitted to go home and went to church, but Gray, who was a member of that church, was not present that night.

TO SEIZE ALL RHINE CUSTOMS AND COAL

Coblenz, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—The inter-allied Rhineland commission today decided in conformity with instructions from the French, Belgian and Italian governments to take over the customs, forests and coal districts of the Rhineland. An order was issued to seize tonight all the receipts on hands in the customs offices and place French officers in charge.

REINFORCE N. Y. GUARDS AGAINST RUM RUNNERS

New York, Jan. 18.—Fifty additional water front guards were sworn in today by Deputy Surveyor Sanders to prevent the landing of liquor by crews of foreign ships. These customs guards will be assigned to special duty on piers with authority to search suspected ships.

BRIER ON JOB AS PROBATE JUDGE

Frank L. Brier assumed his new position as Suffolk Register of Probate amid many congratulations today. He was an assistant district attorney in the office of Thomas C. O'Brien, until recently named by Governor Cox to succeed Probate Judge Arthur W. Dolan as register.

1922 EXPORTS FALL OFF $653,514,623

Washington, Jan. 18.—The total value of American merchandise exports during 1922, according to statistics published today by the Department of Commerce, was $3,831,816,735, compared with $4,485,331,358 in 1921, a decrease of $653,514,623. In 1913 exports were $2,464, scrape up and completed the amount by turning over stock and other securities.

The State street lawyer, one of the most distinguished practicing before the Massachusetts bar, was enticed into a badger game by a former actress and compelled to pay the blackmail gang $150,000. The girl was a chance acquaintance whom he later visited regularly at her smart Back Bay apartment.

Corcoran alleged in his statement that at an opportune time the girl got in touch with the gang and the shake-down followed.

The third hold-up, never before made public, was that of an elderly State street business man, recently retired, who became involved with a slip of a girl. This girl was not a member of the blackmail ring, but her identity became known to the Coakley crowd, according to Corcoran's confession and the "screws" were put on the respectable citizen sufficiently tight to force him to pay $15,000.

BROKE UP DEFENCE.

These three cases, total $200,000. They are the three cases referred to by former Attorney Allen in his report.

It is known that Corcoran, after his original confession which caused the Pelletier forces to throw up their hands just as they were about to open their defence, made a second confession in which he named these cases.

It was said today that many of the major cases in Corcoran's confession have been outlawed under the statute of limitations and that the Corcoran disclosures further lost weight because some of the most prominent victims disputed Corcoran claims and refused to aid Allen.

When representatives of Allen's office interviewed the victims they indignantly denied figuring in such scandals. That developed the situation of the victim declining to come forward as an accuser

Brotherhood Money Foreign Bonds Fall To Train Mediums Debt Collecting

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

THE UNION of locomotive engineers has long been distinguished for good management, discipline and intelligence. Now that well-named "Locomotive Brotherhood" shows that it knows something about finance. The Brotherhood has gone into the banking business, and in two years has increased its resources from $653,000 to $19,000,000. That is the way to impress railroad owners. They understand money; it talks.

MONEY MAKES up its mind on international matters coldly, and usually wisely. The 7½ per cent. French bonds yesterday touched a new low price, the lowest so far. They sold at 90¾.

Such bonds, had they existed in 1914, would have been worth $200.

The French are a wonderful people. France is a very rich nation, but be careful how you buy foreign bonds.

Practically all foreign bonds fell yesterday. Several, like the French, to new low records.

EUROPEAN MONEY also, excepting England's, is on the decline. France fell, also Italian money. The German mark gave an imitation of the cat that faded slowly away, until nothing was left but the grin. That also may soon disappear.

THE ENGLISH Court of Chancery, where Jarndyce versus Jarndyce dragged for so long, is deciding the question: Is it legal to leave money to help spiritualism?

Mr. Hummeltenberg left $15,000 to train mediums. In England anybody pretending to be a medium and to bring down spirits is locked up. The lawyer opposing the will says money can't be left to train people to cheat others, which, he alleged, is the business of "mediums."

On the other hand, thousands, including well-known men like Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge, make a religion of spiritualism, and it's dangerous to interfere with religion, any kind. Give each a fair field; the best is sure to win.

DIFFERENT WAYS of collecting debts you see by looking at Germany and the United States. Germany owes a debt forced upon her by defeat, which she can't, or at least doesn't, pay. France marches in with an army to collect.

France, England and other countries owe the United States thousands of millions, a debt of honor, voluntarily contracted by those countries, which they also, thus far, do not pay.

HOW THE WORLD would cry out if there were talk of sending to Europe to collect that money, as France is now endeavoring to collect in Germany. After all, a debt is only a debt, whether it be a German debt of defeat or a debt of honor to the United States.

SOMETHING IN HUMAN nature makes everybody want to interfere with somebody else. We used to despise the Chinese because they made women squeeze their feet, and men let their hair grow long, in queues.

In Kentucky five trained nurses are suspended for bobbing their hair. That's as silly as the Chinese rule about squeezing feet. The ideal nurse should have her head shaved. No apparatus then for carrying germs from one patient to another.

A TAXI DRIVER of White Plains, New York, is sent to jail for thirty days by a learned judge. The taxi driver told a distinguished lawyer that he lied. Every day, in every way, distinguished lawyers accuse witnesses of lying, directly and indirectly, and bully them into the bargain. That is only "professional conduct."

PRINCE ANDREW of Greece, who narrowly escaped a firing squad made up of his compatriots, is safe in America. We shall probably have several of his relatives, near and distant. This country, where they don't shoot princes or cabinet officers for making mistakes, has attractions.

FLED TO ESCAPE SORROW OVER YOUTH'S DEATH

By Cosmopolitan News Service

New York, Jan. 18.—It was to find surcease from sorrow, following the death of her fiance, that Claire Rogers, eighteen year old student of Columbia University and niece of Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, "disappeared" to a barren room in Greenwich Village, she explained today.

She squandered her fortune of $9.50 before being located in the quest of "color" for a love play.

"I am glad to be back in the warmth of my aunt's flat today, where there is food," she admitted. "But Riverside Drive lacks color and incentive to anyons who has ambitions to write."

Among poems dedicated to her sweetheart, who died two months ago, by the aspiring feminine novelist, are the following.

LIFE.

Life is a veiled dream
Of sorrow and of strife—
Some of which is given
To each while on earth.

A PRAYER.

Oh, sweetheart, o' my life,
Naught so thrills my heart, my soul,
As the one thought from lovest me true.
Shall we walk side by side as the years roll
Down the pleasant pathways of our dreams?
Or shall the mists and clouds of life roll
And rend shadows of our rosy dreams?
O, God forbid!
If fate doth march fit to strew
Our future paths with blinding tears,
O! God forbid, I implore thee.

MY FLAME OF LOVE.

Fitful I will always be,
You are all the world to me
One year ago, with his cheeks aglow,
My lover whisper'd into my ear
Those very words that I now hear
With velvety lips and love lit eyes
And hearts aglow and soft replies
We plighted our troth to each other,
A month and more has silently passed,
Since you, dear one, and I did part,
Though the love for me may have breathed
Its last,
Within the deep recesses of my heart
A tiny spark of love for thee remains.
Who can catch the merry sunbeams
As they dance with graceful lightness?
None can catch the merry sunbeams
So none can quench the flame
Started flickering within my heart.
My love will ever be the same
For thee my dear pal.

VATICAN APPEALS AGAIN FOR FILIPPI

Rome, Jan. 18. By International News Service.)—Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, today sent a second cablegram to President Obregon of Mexico, asking suspension of the order expelling Monsignor Ernesto Filippi, Apostolic Delegate to Mexico.

A dispatch from Mexico City said that Monsignor Filippi had left last night for Laredo, Texas, enroute for Ottawa, Canada, where he will make his home.

U. S. TO TAX "JACKIE" COOGAN $260,720

Los Angeles, Jan. 18.—Of the $500,000 Jackie Coogan, child film actor, received for signing a contract with Metro Pictures Corporation, $260,720 will go to the government in the form of income tax, according to figures of the Collector of Internal Revenue. This does not include the tax on Jackie's salary of $1,250 a week, that of his father, $1,000 a week, or Jackie's 40 per cent. share of the net profits of films in which he is to be starred.

LINER RESCUES 29 ON SINKING FREIGHTER

New York, Jan. 18. (By the Associated Press).—The Italian steamship Giuseppe Verdi wirelessed her owners here today that she had rescued at sea the entire crew of the Italian freighter Montello at 11 a. m., Wednesday. The Montello was reported sinking at that hour.

The Montello was reported in distress 500 miles east of Sable Island and the steamship Eastern King wirelessed that she was proceeding to her assistance.

The Giuseppe Verdi, which sailed from Genoa and Naples on January 5, will be about two days late on account of the rescue.

There were twenty-nine men in the crew of the Montello. The vessel was commanded by F. Sturlese and carried a cargo of grain.

A wireless message by way of Halifax stated that the Montello was still afloat and constituted a menace to navigation.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 18.—The entire crew of eleven men of the schooner Helvetia are believed by coast guard officials here to have lost their lives when that vessel capsized off the Virginia coast during the heavy storms last month.

A derelict sighted off Winter Quarter Lightship last Monday was found today to be the Helvetia, which left New York on December 13 for Charleston, S. C. It is being towed to this port by the coast guard cutter Manning.

JURY GETS HERRIN MASSACRE CASES

Marion, Ill., Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—The case of five men charged with murder of Howard Hoffman, one of the victims killed during the Herrin riots, was given to the jury today, after instructions by Judge Hartwell.

In his charge Judge Hartwell said: "It is not against the law to mine coal without being a member of the United Mine Workers of America. If assaulted or killed for no other reason if cannot be justified because they were not members of that organization."

The judge instructed the jury that if they were convinced the defendants had engaged in a conspiracy to do an unlawful act which led to the killing of Howard Hoffman, they were guilty of homicide whether or not they had actually taken part in the slaying.

SAVE $300,000 YEARLY BY NEW SCHOOL PLAN

By approving the recommendations of Dr. David D. Scannell, chairman of the school committee, that the present system of schoolhouse construction be changed, Mayor Curley believes the city will save at least $200,000 a year, an amount equal to a new schoolhouse a year. Hereafter, the plans for a schoolhouse of eight rooms or under will be built on standard lines. This will mean the elimination of the architect fees.

Seven Killed in Wreck

Rome, Jan. 18. — Seven workmen were killed in a railway wreck near Taglie Cozzo today.

POLICE BELIEVE FIRE SET

Heart of Town Threatened as Flames Destroy Two of Principal Buildings

Rockland, Jan. 18.—Fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, today destroyed the Webster and Bigelow buildings, which contained the Knights of Columbus and Foresters' headquarters and a Christian Science reading room, at a loss of $150,000.

The Standard building, adjoining, caught fire and the business section of the town was threatened, necessitating aid from the fire departments of Brockton and North Abington.

For hours firemen fought to save the town, as flames from the doomed buildings shot skyward, and flying sparks were showered on nearby structures.

The Congregational Church opposite was saved from damage by a heavy covering of snow.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman George Popp, who sounded the alarm and then entered the burning building. He was driven back by flames of fierce intensity from the second floor, where the fire apparently originated between the Christian Science reading room and the E. A. Strout Farm Agency.

When firemen arrived flames were shooting from windows and doors of the Webster building, and aid was summoned at once from Brockton and North Abington.

Chief Clyson Pinkley of the local department said that when firemen first entered the building they found two large doors leading to fire escapes open, creating a draft that fanned the flames into tremendous activity.

The blaze was also fed by open gas lines which handicapped the firemen until an emergency crew from the Old Colony Gas Company shut off the flow. One wall of the Webster building collapsed, falling on the Standard building, which houses the local newspaper, The Rockland Standard. Falling debris and the fear of further collapses, hindered the firemen also.

The buildings burned were both owned by A. W. Perry, and contained stores, halls and offices. In addition to the K. of C., Christian Science reading room and Foresters of America rooms, the buildings housed the stores of N. H. Ramsey, clothing, E. H. Farnsworth, general store; F. E. Paterson & Company, groceries and provisions, and Eurrell & Delorey, shoes.

The offices were occupied by Dr. John A. Billings, dentist; Miss Alice Coombs, music teacher; S. W. Baker, optician; Attorney J. B. Maher, Dr. Harry Ray, dentist, and Strout Farm Agency.

Water and flames caused $2,000 damage in the printing plant of the Rockland Standard. The paper, due to issue today, will publish tomorrow.

DEMANDS DOCTORS ALWAYS ON DUTY

Representative Charles Symonds of Lynn appeared before the legislative Committee on Public Health today and advocated a law to compel all hospitals of fifty beds or more to have a registered physician always in attendance. He said he knows of a private hospital in Lynn, with seventy-five beds, where the patients pay as high as $45 a week and rarely see a physician. He said human life "should not be held so cheap."

ASKS PAY INCREASE FOR ASSISTANTS

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien of Suffolk County, supported by Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, for the City of Boston, appeared before the Committee on Public Service today to urge an increase in the number of his assistants and increased pay for all. He asked that his assistants be increased from six to ten, of whom six would receive $7,000 a year and four $5,000, each.

POLA FINDS 'MENTAL LOVELAND'

Honeymoons "in Her Mind" With Charlie Chaplin; Expect Stars to Wed Shortly

Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.

Monterey, Cal., Jan. 18.—Pola Negri says that a honeymoon is a state of mind.

If that is so, she may be enjoying a "mental honeymoon" here at Pebble Beach Lodge on the shores of Monterey Bay.

Charlie Chaplin is not here in person of this "honeymoon trip," but his spirit is expressed in the flowers that fill the rooms, in the constant long distance telephone messages that come from him from Los Angeles and telegrams that further punctuate the day.

The outstanding high lights that illuminate the heart affairs of these two cinema celebrities all point to the altar as the objective.

Their best friends believe that marriage was the purpose of the trip from Hollywood to Santa Barbara last Friday, when Chaplin himself drove Pola in his car, and her secretary, maid and chauffeur followed in another motor.

REGISTERS AS "COUNTESS."

Neither of them would admit to press representatives in Santa Barbara that they had married—nor did they deny it. The party spent Saturday night at Samarkand.

Charlie Chaplin left Santa Barbara for Hollywood on Sunday. Pola Negri and her personal retinue motored up here to the lodge at Pebble Beach, which is practically deserted at this time of year. She registered as "Countess Dombski, the name she acquired by virtue of her marriage to the Polish count from whom she is divorced.

WEARS BIG SOLITAIRE.

Although Pola Negri protests that she is frightened to death of the American press and admits she came here for the avowed purpose of dodging interviewers, the open secret of mutual friendship inspired her to grant the International News Service the only interview since her engagement to Chaplin has been reported.

She talked of Charlie—she pronounces his name "Sharlie"—and never did the name fall so prettily from any lips, for Pola Negri has a voice that would add music to the speaking stage.

She did not attempt to hide the fact that a blazing solitair diamond, a single stone, half covering her third finger, was a gift from him.

But of wedding rings she would speak not at all.

Juanita Hansen Begged For Her Liberty

New York, Jan. 18.—Charges of illegal possession of narcotics against Miss Juanita Hansen, motion picture actress, were dismissed in the West Side Court by Magistrate McQuade.

Miss Hansen was arrested in the apartment of Mrs. Ruth Barnett by Detectives Cotter and O'Brien. The detectives allege they found her in possession of a hypodermic needle and cocaine.

SPEEDILY DISMISSED.

Following the completion of the prosecution by Assistant District Attorney Aulsta, counsel for Miss Hansen, Joseph A. Rosenback, said:

"I move, your honor, that the charges be dismissed because of the manner in which the arrest was made and because the sanctity——"

The magistrate said:

"Both charges dismissed."

Detective Cotter said:

"I went to the apartment of Mrs. Barnett. I went to the bathroom and while there heard a spoon drop.

"The door leading to the adjoining sleeping apartment was slightly ajar. I saw Miss Hansen in there with a hypodermic needle in her hand. I rushed into the room and grabbed her right wrist. With her left hand, she attempted to destroy a pill box containing white powder, which was standing on a dresser.

"The powder has since been analyzed by a city chemist as cocaine.

TELLS OF HER PLEAS.

"The spoon was still hot and on the end of the hypodermic needle were a few small drops of the solution which had been cooked in the spoon."

Cotter said he told Miss Hansen he was sorry that he would have to arrest her, whereupon she replied:

"Can't we talk this over? Have you no one that you love? Don't you know that I am the support of my family and that this will ruin my career?"

U. S. IS ASKED TO SAVE IRISH WOMEN

New York, Jan. 18.—Execution of women prisoners held by the Irish Free State government is imminent and immediate intervention is necessary to save them, said a radio message received here today by Mrs. Gertrude Cyclese, active in Irish Republican circles here, from Madame Despard, sister of Lord French.

London, Jan. 18.—How a Dublin mail train carrying 200 passengers leaped a chasm caused by the destruction of a twelve-foot culvert last week has just been revealed says a Press Association dispatch.

A force of Republicans dynamited a culvert between Limluff and Templemore, and the rails, while badly twisted by the explosion, were left suspended across the gulf, and over these the train, speeding at forty-five miles an hour, passed in safety.

HUSBAND IS SOUGHT IN MYSTERY

By Cosmopolitan News Service

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—Who was the Hollywood motion picture actor to whom chic Fritzie Mann, interpreter of Oriental dances, was secretly married shortly before she was murdered on the lonely stretch of sandy beach near San Diego?

Los Angeles police detectives today were investigating the statement made by a girl friend of Miss Mann.

"Fritzie told me," she is reported to have said, "that she was the wife of a prominent cinema actor, but that the marriage must remain secret, because it might interfere with their mutual professional ambitions."

While the detectives were making inquiries in Hollywood, San Diego detectives were searching marriage license records at Tia Juana, Mexico, across the border, a popular rendezvous for eloping couples.

An expensive limousine figured in the investigation. It was seen at La Jolla Sunday night, the night the dancer is believed to have been murdered.

An angle of inquiry extends to army circles. According to information Miss Mann was enamored of an army officer. This man, one of her girl friends declared, was the only man the young dancer really loved.

Miss Mann was last seen in San Diego Sunday afternoon. She went to Long Beach to attend a house party.

For this occasion she borrowed a new hat and new dress of her chum, Miss Dorothy Armstrong, another dancer. The hat and dress were found some distance from the body.

Early morning autoists saw her body on the beach. Apparently she had been dead some hours. The body was clothed only in a pink silk undergarment, silk stockings and a new pair of pumps.

A cut in her forehead is believed to have been the death blow.

WON WIFE AWAY IN 2 WEEKS

Film Man Wrote He'd "Go Through Hell for You" to Mrs. Cromwell

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Testimony was introduced here today in the divorce suit of John Howard Cromwell, millionaire New York lawyer, that Mrs. Cromwell began to hold clandestine meetings with Harry Cohn, a motion picture promoter, within less than two weeks after her marriage to Cromwell in August, 1917.

"I would go through hell for you," declared Cohn in a letter he is alleged to have written to Mrs. Cromwell from Los Angeles. "That, you know, is real love. I cannot give you up. Please quit it all and come out here to live with me."

MEET IN NEW YORK.

Mrs. Genevieve Mulford, housekeeper of the Cromwell Summer home at Larchmont, testified that Mrs. Cromwell made weekly trips to New York city to meet Cohn. She said she overheard Cohn and Mrs. Cromwell arrange to conduct their love correspondence when the former went to California. She said Cohn signed his letters "Harriet," and wrote about four times a week.

Mrs. Mabel Fenton Ross, who at one time owned the Ross-Fenton Farm, testified she had leased the log cabin to Mrs. Cromwell in 1918 for two weeks. She said the defendant told her she had been ill and very unhappy and it was "the only happy time she had ever had."

PAJAMAS AND RIMMONS.

She swore she had seen Harry Cohn on the porch of the log cabin.

Mrs. Ella Hoyt, for 26 years a hat checker at Ross-Fenton Farm, testified Mrs. Barker, as she knew the defendant, hired a log cabin near the farm in 1919 and 1920, and a short time after arrival of Mrs. Cromwell with Mrs. Mulford, Harry Cohn appeared on the scene. She said Cohn was there all the time and Miss Mann was there, which was about two weeks.

RADIO HOOKING OF QUINCY FAN

USES WD-11 TUBE

Unusual circuit offered by a Quincy fan. L1, L2 and L3 are 50, 75 and 50 turn honeycomb coils, home made. C1 is .0005 mfd. The grid condenser (C2) is .00025 mfd, with a variable grid leak of 0 to 5 megohms.

GETS DISTANCE WITH QUIET OPERATION

Among the entries in the free vacuum tube contest for this week is an unusual hook-up for a receiver offered by Albert J. Franklin (1VZ) of Packard place, Quincy, Mass. He says:

"Enclosed is a circuit I stumbled across while experimenting with different hook-ups and I think it is original, as I have not seen it in print to date. The tube employed was a WD-11, with a tapped B battery of 22½ volts. We (the wife and family) have heard CFCA, KDZE, KFAF, WIP, WMAP, WDAO. These are our long range stations; others at 600 to 800 miles come in strong. I do not experience any tube noises and the set is practically quiet in operation.

"The WD-11 tube is a humdinger for this. I shall be glad to answer any letters in regard to the above circuit and would like to hear especially from anyone who builds one."

James W. Berman of Beverly, whose hook-up for a flivver receiver was published January 16, wishes to correct an error in the diagram. There is no ground used on the set whatever, he says. The radio editor wishes to apologize for letting this slip by with the ground shown. He also says that signals are audible forty feet from the phone.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY HAIR AT ONCE

Try This! Hair Appears Soft, Colorful and Abundant —A Gleamy Mass

35 Cent Bottle of "Danderine" Also Ends Dandruff; Falling Hair

A "Danderine Beauty Treatment" will immediately double the attractiveness of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and really appear twice as thick and abundant—a mass of luxuriant, giddy, colorful hair.

Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine eradicates dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is the best, cheapest and most delightful hair corrective and tonic. It is to the hair what fresh showers of rain are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, vitalizes and strengthens them. Its stimulating properties help the hair to grow long, heavy, strong.

You can surely have beautiful hair, and lots of it, if you will spend 35 cents for a bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter. It is not greasy, oily or sticky.

BRITISH SEIZE GUN-RUNNER OFF IRELAND

Dublin, Jan. 18.—The English channel steamer Shuvenamon, suspected of carrying arms for the Irish rebels, was captured off Cork Harbor and searched by the British.

Kidnaped Irish Inspectors Freed

Cork, Jan. 18 (By Associated Press).—Sean McGrath and Seamus Murphy, the two inspectors kidnaped at a meeting of the Board of Guardians, have returned here. They refused to talk of their adventure. The inspectors, who were holding a government inquiry before the board when the men entered, were marched to an automobile and driven away.

Two Free State Soldiers Are Slain in Ambush

Dublin, Jan. 18.—Two Free State soldiers were killed and two others captured in an ambush attack by Republicans in County Tipperary today. Three men were wounded in an ambuscade in County Mayo.

Several railway stations near Cork were burned. Notices were posted at Limerick warning engine drivers that they would be shot if they drove trains carrying Free State troops.

Republican Wounded in Battle Near Cork

Dublin, Jan. 18.—Heavy fighting occurred in the Dromina district of County Cork, it was learned today. A large force of Nationals came into contact with a column of irregulars 800 strong.

There was much machine gun and rifle firing, but the National casualties consisted of only one slightly wounded. Four irregulars were captured.

WINS $370,796 IN 50-YEAR LAWSUIT

Marion E. Brown of this city will get $370,796 from Allen W. Fletcher of Alpena, Mich., as the final settlement of a lawsuit which has dragged through the courts of Michigan and Massachusetts for more than fifty years, and which was not concluded until long after all the principals had died. The proceedings were started to get an accounting of a lumber business which involved thousands of acres of land, part of which is now the city of Alpena. The business was originally started by George M. Fletcher and Thomas Campbell in the fifties.

SMITH PARDONS "BIG JIM" LARKIN

Albany, Jan. 18.—"Big Jim" Larkin, Irish agitator, who was sentenced to five years in jail for anarchy in 1920, has been pardoned by Governor Alfred E. Smith. Larkin was convicted of publishing radical literature in the "Left Wing Manifesto," in which he advocated dictation by the proletariat. He first came to America in 1914 and immediately won notoriety when he tried to form an alliance between Irish and American labor.

"Big Jim" Larkin

In extending clemency, Governor Smith made it plain that he did not, in the slightest, agree with Larkin's doctrine.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

"USE LIQUID ARVON"

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moistan the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

K. C. Offer Private Car to Prelate Ousted by Mexico

Mexico City, Jan. 18.—The Knights of Columbus have offered Mgr. Filippi, expelled Papal delegate to Mexico, the use of a private car to convey him to Washington from Laredo, Tex., whither he departed yesterday. His train was due at the border city today.

SOFT COAL MEN IN WAGE PARLEY

New York, Jan. 18 (By International News Service).—Hopeful that an amicable arrangement will be reached, which will prevent a strike in the bituminous fields, on April 1, representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, president, and the operators of the central competitive bituminous field, went into conference today to negotiate a new agreement to replace the Cleveland agreement which expires on April 1.

The miners will demand an extension of the present contract for two years, but the operators are willing to extend it only for one year. The miners are expected to ask for a six-hour-day and a five-day week. Decisions at this conference will affect approximately 200,000 men.

BABY BITTEN BY RAT AS MOTHER SLEEPS

Mrs. Reginald Ryan, No. 348 Shawmut avenue, was awakened in the middle of the night when she heard her six-weeks' old baby, Wendall, in a carriage beside her bed, scream in pain. She saw a large rat, its teeth sunk in the baby's neck, slowly seeking the child's blood. She made a grab for the rat, which disappeared down a hole.

Mrs. Ryan ran with the child to the East Dedham Street Station. Ball Commissioner Joseph Fahey took the mother and the child to the Rollins street branch of the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

There it was found that the baby had been bitten on the lips, nose, neck and eyelids. It is believed he will recover.

FAIL TO AGREE ON BRITISH DEBT TO U. S.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Official announcement was made at the treasury department this afternoon, at the end of a long session of the American and British Debt Commission, that it has been found impossible to reach an agreement for the payment of the $5,000,000,000 debt of Great Britain to the United States.

The American Commission issued this statement:

"The two commissions have given long and detailed consideration to the questions involved in the funding of the debts. Progress has been made toward a mutual understanding of the problems involved and discussions have now reached a point at which the British government thinks it desirable that the Chancellor of the Exchequer should return to London for consultation.

"The discussions have therefore been adjourned and the Chancellor of the Exchequer will sail on the 25th inst."

PEDLARS BRAZENLY SELL COAL AT $24 A TON

PAID $17, DEALER CLAIMS

Sells It From Wagon on Streets at $1.20 Per Hundredweight

Going up!

West End coal pedlars have not stopped at the $20 or $22 marks. Today they were found selling their wares at the top-notch figure of $24. This is believed to be a record.

This situation was uncovered by a Boston American reporter while delving into conditions in that part of the city.

And one of the pedlars blandly informed the reporter that he had to pay $17 a ton for his coal, even though he bought forty-eight tons in a carload shipment.

This particular pedlar, with his two horses and wagon, was selling the coal at the rate of $1.20 per hundredweight.

"Where did you buy it?" the pedlar was asked.

"Oh, over in East Cambridge."

Then, when the questioning got too persistent, the pedlar suddenly developed poor knowledge of the English language and from then on questions were met with shrugs of the shoulders and a grin.

The pedlar strongly derided the probability that he only paid $14 or $15 wholesale rates for the coal. While the discussion was taking place a police officer came along and ordered the dealer to cover up his horses. He had thrown a blanket over them but it landed around the horses' necks.

This case has been referred to the City Fuel Administrator and it is expected that steps will be taken to curb him and other pedlars who have established their own prices.

If the West End pedlar's figures are to be believed, he is making $7 a ton. With the strong probability that he is paying less than $17 a ton, wholesale, his profits probably amount to $8 or $10 a ton.

During the last two days the pedlars have been exceptionally well supplied with coal and, as a result, the gathering around their wagons has diminished.

DEFEND COAL MEN.

Fuel Administrator Thomas Quigley, Jr., of Winchester blames the people as much as the coal dealers for the present conditions, especially in regard to traffic conditions.

"If the people would keep their walks shoveled off, it would make it easier for the coal trucks to reach them and the delivery would be much quicker. One of the chief troubles is the fact that the coal company trucks have been tied up and they have been unable to make many deliveries."

Oliver M. Fisher and P. H. Morrissey, Fuel Administrators of Newton and Waltham, respectively, report that the dealers in those cities "are acting right" in regard to their customers.

Both of these cities are on "short rations," but the dealers, according to the administrators, are doing their utmost to be fair in their dealings.

Petition

TO the members of the Congress of the United States:

We respectfully petition you to take action to relieve the situation in various parts of the country, particularly in New England, which has resulted from the difficulty in obtaining coal, and to prevent the exportation of coal until the needs of the people of the United States are filled.

SUFFERED MANY YEARS WITH FEMALE TROUBLE

PE-RU-NA LIKE A GIFT FROM HEAVEN

Mrs. Katie Scheffel, R. F. D. No. 5, Lowell, Ohio

"I have been suffering for years with female trouble. Was operated on five years ago. It relieved me some but I did not regain my strength. Two years ago was taken sick and bedfast several months. I treated a long while without much relief. I was discouraged, my mind affected, so nervous I could neither eat or sleep and unable to do anything.

We tried several doctors but one after another gave up my case as hopeless. Finally a good friend advised me to try Pe-ru-na. I did. It relieved me almost immediately. Your medical department said I was suffering from chronic catarrh of the system. I began taking your medicine in March, 1914, and continued until August. I took ten bottles of Pe-ru-na and three bottles of Man-a-lin and felt like a new person. Your medicine seemed like a gift from Heaven. It was like coming from darkness into light.

We have used your medicine since for coughs, colds and grip with good results. We will always keep it on hand. I weight twenty-five pounds more than I ever did, eat and sleep well and can do a good day's work. Everybody says I look fine. Even the doctors are surprised. I cannot thank you enough and will always recommend Pe-ru-na to sufferers from catarrh."

MRS. KATIE SCHEFFEL.
R. F. D. No. 5, Lowell, O.

Mrs. Scheffel is only one of many thousand women in the world who owe their present health to Pe-ru-na. The record of this medicine is a proud one as Pe-ru-na has held the confidence of both sexes for fifty years or more.

If your trouble is due to a catarrhal inflammation in any organ or part of the body, do like Mrs. Scheffel. Try Pe-ru-na. Insist upon having the original and reliable remedy for catarrhal conditions. You won't be sorry.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

ITALY WARNS BRITAIN AND FRANCE OF WAR WITH GERMANY

ARMIES FACE TO FACE

Teuton Envoy to Rome Declares Berlin Regards Situation as Most Dangerous

Washington, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Italy has taken definite steps to impress upon the British and French governments that she regards the present situation in the Ruhr as fraught with great danger, and although not taking the position of an actual mediator, has earnestly suggested that any further forcible steps toward the collection of German reparations be taken only after the most mature consideration.

The Italian Government is understood to have acted after the German Ambassador at Rome called attention to the fact that the French army in the Ruhr and the remnants of the Germany military forces are facing each other across a space of only a few miles, presenting a situation regarded in Germany as involving the most dangerous possibilities.

Italy Refuses to Send Troops to Coblenz

Rome, Jan. 18 (By International News Service).—Italy will not send troops to Coblenz to replace the departing American army of occupation, it was announced today. The French had asked Minister Mussolini for a regiment for the Coblenz area.

Telegraph Brevities

New York—Europe is in a critical situation and on the verge of another war, Major-General George H. Harries, formerly in charge of American troop debarkation at Brest, France, declared on his arrival from Europe.

New York—The entire estate of William H. Moore, known as "Judge" Moore, capitalist, lawyer and horseman, who died last week, estimated by an executor at between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000, was left to his widow and two sons.

Gloversville, N. Y.—A coincidence in deaths occurred here when two brothers, John P. Groff, seventy-four, and Dwella Groff, eighty-four, died at their respective homes at exactly the same hour and minute.

East Blackstone—A silver medal, $1,000 and a monthly pension of $60 and $5 a month for her children was awarded by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission to the widow of Charles A. Johnson of Stamford, Ct., who died while trying to save Leo Dietrich from suffocating in a well.

Wilbraham—Mrs. Chauncey E. Peck, seventy-four, was killed by a street car at St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Peck attempted to cross the street to join a friend who had been beckoning to her.

Washington — Nearly $1,000,000 were withdrawn from the postal savings system during December. Uncle Sam, the banker, started the new year with $820,000 less than he had on November 30.

Bulletins

New York—The German dye industry may be paralyzed because of the occupation by the French of the Ruhr district, dye importers declared today. The occupied area represents practically the entire German chemical field.

Berlin (By A. P.).—The Reichsbank today raised its discount rate to 12 per cent. from the 10 per cent. rate established on November 13 last.

Athens—Foreign Minister Alexandris, replying to representation by the French minister, said Greece has no intention of going to war against the Turks in Thrace.

London (By Associated Press)—German marks today were quoted at 105,000 to 110,000 to the pound sterling. The French franc stood at 70.75 and the Belgian franc at 71.55 to the pound.

London—Owing to American and French demands for coal, South Wales ports are crowded with ships. There are 315 at the docks and 133 arrived in the last three days. Forty-eight are unable to find berths.

U. S. MOVES FOR TURKISH PEACE

Lausanne, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—The influence of the American delegation is being exercised in a quite friendly way at the Near East conference to find a solution of what is considered the gravest problem, the question of judicial privileges for foreigners in Turkey.

Richard Washburn Child, Ambassador to Italy, of the American delegation, had a conference today with Ismet Pasha and earnestly counseled the Turkish leader to propose some counter project on this vital question.

If a satisfactory solution is not found it is considered probable the United States will open direct negotiations with the Angora government to establish the rights of American citizens.

The Turks have rejected the Allied suggestion that foreign judges sit on the bench with Turkish magistrates in trials of foreign cases.

Six Coal Magnates to Be Court-Martialed

Essen, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—The French military authorities, today instituted court-martial proceedings against six Ruhr coal magnates, whose names are withheld for the present, on a charge of "refusing to obey the orders of the military authorities in the territory under state of siege."

The magnates have not been taken into custody.

Paris, Jan. 18.—A Havas dispatch from Dusseldorf says the six Ruhr coal magnates against whom court-martial proceedings were initiated were present at Tuesday's meeting with the French mission and include Fritz Thyssen, son of August Thyssen, and active head of the various Thyssen interests.

exact nature of the conversations was not given out.

In other official quarters, however, it was stated the policy of passive resistance adopted by the Germans was regarded as of very great danger to the peace of Germany.

Continuation of the present attitude of the Berlin government and the Ruhr industrialists, it was said, gave rise to fears that the Nationalist spirit may be aroused to such a pitch as to provoke serious trouble.

It was pointed out that the reaction had already been felt in Upper Silesia, where secret societies are reported to be exerting great efforts to bring about strikes.

Declares French Satisfied With Present "Strangle Hold"

Essen, Jan. 18.—Regarding a rumor that the French planned to March upon Berlin, a high French officer made the following statement to International News Service today:

"We have got a stranglehold on Germany, which is all we want. There is nothing between Hamm and Berlin that would make it worth while to march upon. If the Germans refuse to obey we will stay here; if they obey we will get out."

Lithuania Defies Allied Sovereignty in Memel

Kovno, Lithuania, Jan. 18.—Premier Garvanauskas informed the Diet today that Lithuania would not accept any decision of the Council of Ambassadors regarding Memel unless it reflected the will of the population of that territory.

The newspapers say that the government will refuse to recognize allied sovereignty over Memel.

American Criticism Made France Change Policy

Essen, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Ruhr Valley coal operators, who thought last night the French were to take over the mines, found themselves still in possession of their properties today and learned only coal mined and above ground came under the revised requisitioning orders.

The economic commission concluded, because of the shortage of technical experts, it would be better to requisition only coal ready for delivery and to re-route to France all shipments intended for German domestic consumption.

It was also said certain nations, notably the United States and Great Britain, looked with disfavor upon the term "confiscations" as it had been applied to the French Ruhr policy by the Paris press.

Snip Hair of German Girl Fraternizing With French

Essen, Jan. 18 (By the Associated Press). — Samples of German sentiment in the occupied zone may be seen in two instances. As a German girl in Steele was leaving a motion picture theatre with two French soldiers someone slipped behind her and bobbed her hair.

At Kettwig a crowd broke the window of a barber shop wherein were displayed postcard views of the entry of the French.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the neck and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

CHICAGO BANS KLANSMEN ON CITY PAYROLL

Chicago, Jan. 18.—By a vote of 56 to 2 the City Council went on record as opposed to retaining members of the Ku Klux Klan on the city payroll.

The vote was taken when the Council was asked to order the suspension of William H. Green, a city fireman and an alleged member of the Klan.

Green recently had been questioned by an aldermanic investigating committee regarding his alleged connections with the organization. At that time he declared he had resigned from the Klan. He will face trial before the Civil Service Commission January 24.

Alderman Robert J. Mulcahy, acting as chairman of the Council's committee, declared during the session that a policeman had threatened his life for his activities against the secret order.

John P. Garner, one of the dissenting Aldermen, referred to alleged Klan activities in Morehouse Parish, La.

"A friend of mine who just came back from Louisiana met Skipworth and Dr. McKoin and says they are a fine lot of people," Alderman Garner said. "The whole trouble down there is politics."

Skipworth is the Cyclops of the Klan in Morehouse Parish and Dr. McKoin, alleged Klan leader, went back to Louisiana after he recently was charged with murder.

BRITISH RUBBER BAN SCORED BY FIRESTONE

Washington, Jan. 18.—Harvey S. Firestone, hero to interest Federal officials and Congress in measures to enlarge and protect the American supply of crude rubber, explained why he would not attend a meeting at New York tonight between representatives of the British rubber industry and the Rubber Association of America.

"My reasons," he said, "are the restriction of rubber production in British colonies was done by legislation. The matter has passed out of the hands of producers and consumers."

Mr. Firestone declared 85 per cent. of the world's crude rubber production was controlled by British capital, while 70 per cent was consumed in the United States. The British, through legislation, he said, have restricted 1923 crude rubber production to 60 per cent. of the 1920 production, indicating a world output of 201,000 tons, while "the estimated consumption in 1923 has been placed at 400,000 tons."

"It is time," Firestone said, "for America to awaken to her weakness, even in time of peace, in her source of supply for this important commodity. Investigation shows we have in the Philippines more than 1,000,000 acres equal to any land in the Far East for production of rubber. All that is needed is a modification of the laws of the islands to make it possible and safe for American capital to make large investments there."

Get the habit
—it's a good one

Shake hands with health Every day

Buying prunes in the new Sunsweet 2-lb. carton is another good household habit. More sanitary; more convenient; better-keeping; better all around. In three sizes of fruit—large, medium, small. Your grocer has it!

A bowl of Sunsweet Prunes every morning is a mighty good health-habit—get it! Here's how: Wash Sunsweet Prunes, cover with warm water, and soak over night. Heat slowly [in water in which they were soaked] to simmering point. Cook until tender but not broken. Slow cooking develops flavor and the natural fruit sugars so that little, if any, sugar is required. A fireless cooker is excellent for cooking prunes. Soak as directed, heat to the boiling point then set in fireless cooker for several hours. The complete Sunsweet Recipe Packet is yours for the asking—send for it today. # Fourth Junior Supper Dance Is Set for Tomorrow Night, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

BY far not the least important event of an unusually crowded week is the fourth junior supper dance to be held at the Copley-Plaza tomorrow night. These terpsichorean affairs, modeled after the senior supper dances, are among the most keenly anticipated events of the entire season, and there's always a gay crowd on hand to trip the light fantastic.

Of the committee in charge is Miss Ella Snelling, daughter of the Rodman P. Snellings, who made a very delightful "powder puff" at the Animated Advertising Adventure the other night. Miss Snelling, who has added to the success of several Vincent Club shows, stepped out of a huge powder box, the top of it representing an enormous puff. Her costume was an exquisite affair of pink and white, and she wore a large white wig, making her look for all the world like a very dainty shepherdess.

Also on the committee for the supper dance tomorrow night is Miss Frances Weld, the petite blonde daughter of the Bernard C. Welds, and one of the prominent buds of the season. She, too, took part in Monday evening's affair at the Opera House, seeming to rise up from a huge tub of white bubbles. Speaking of the latter, I heard that the balloons used for these bubbles had to be imported all the way from New Jersey, as no white balloons could be procured hereabouts.

The other members of the committee include the Misses Louise Fessenden, Marion Fenno and Frances Weld, Mrs. Arthur Richmond and Francis B. Lothrop, as well as Chandler Bigelow, Charles Cabot, Robert W. Emmons, 3d, Lawrence Foster, James J. Lee, Henry G. Morgan and Philip Shepley.

MRS. JAMES LOWELL PUTNAM, formerly of Boston and now of New York, is on the committee for the new Wednesday Evening Supper Club, which is to meet each week in the grill of the Lorraine. The committee includes some of the most fashionable folk of Gotham, including Mrs. H. Casimir de Rham, Mrs. Richard T. Wilson—also formerly of Boston—Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., and Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY B. SAWYER of Dartmouth street have concluded their visit to Newport and have returned to Boston.

I IMAGINE that when pretty Miss Vera Howell, daughter of Mrs. Percy D. Haughton, makes her debut—possibly next year—that she will be one of the most widely-feted girls of her season. For she is most attractive to look at, and seems to have a good bit of charm. When I saw her the other night at an important charity function, she wore a simple dark gown trimmed with Russian cross-stitch embroidery. She has exceptionally pretty, fluffy, light brown hair, deep blue eyes, and lovely coloring. Brought up as she is in an atmosphere of sport—Percy Haughton being known far and wide as one-time coach of the Crimson eleven—she's quite an expert equestrienne and fond of all kinds of sports.

THERE'S a notable list of patronesses for the concert which Mrs. W. A. Clark has arranged to take place at Jordan Hall today. Mme. Eva Gauthier, the well-known mezzo-soprano, is to sing, accompanied by Frederick Persson. Miss Marie Mikova, the pianist, is also on the program.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SUMNER HAMLIN, who have a host of notable connections here, entertained a dinner company of fourteen young people at their Winter home in Washington the other evening, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Baldwin. Later they took their guests on to the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Thom gave for their debutante daughter, Miss Caroline Thom.

DENISHAWNS GIVE BRILLIANT SHOW

By ZOE FABER.

From the most delicate pastels to the brilliant oranges, blues, greens and reds of the spectrum, there played a wonderful fleeting vision of light and color last night at the Opera House, when Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with the Denishawn Dancers, gave their only performance of this season in Boston.

The art of Ruth St. Denis is too well known to require any further comment than to say that all the old-time perfection of her dancing and the irresistible charm of her personality worked its usual spell. Ted Shawn did some very skillful work, both with Miss St. Denis and also in his Spanish solo.

It is a pity that, with such exquisite dancing as was done last night, none but the most mediocre music served as a background. An orchestra of skilled musicians would have enhanced every beauty a hundred fold.

BURGLAR GETS $400 LOOT IN CHELSEA

A porch climber entered an unlocked rear window of Abraham Altman's flat on the second floor at No. 148 Chestnut street, Chelsea, and took two black seal fur coats, valued at $400. Altman reported the break to the police.

GETS 3 MONTHS IN ATTACK ON WOMAN

Ira Whynot of No. 11 Paris street, East Boston, was given three months in the House of Correction and fined $5 in East Boston Court today for drunkenness and assault on Mrs. Gretchen Martell, of East Boston. According to the police, Whynot entered the apartment of Mrs. Martell, which is below his own, and punched her in the face.

INSANE MAN IS DRAWN FOR JURY SERVICE HERE

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton today declared the jury system is so bad in this State that an insane man was recently drawn for jury duty and that, on the same panel, there were six deaf men.

"One of the district attorneys was struck by the peculiar actions of one of the men drawn for jury service," said Mr. Benton. On closer examination he found the man was mentally defective.

"There is no reason why lawyers and doctors should be exempted from jury service and absolutely no reason why members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery should be released merely because of membership in that organization. The business man ought to be compelled to serve.

"I approve the views of Mr. Allen as to the necessity of improving the jury system. The necessity is apparent—apart from these cases Mr. Allen brought out in his report.

"The matter was gone into at the recent conference of district attorneys, and all, including myself, favored a change. I shall appear before the Legislature to recommend the substance of Mr. Allen's report."

Mr. Benton's seven assistant attorneys-general today took the oath of office.

They are Alexander Lincoln, Albert Hurwitz, James H. Devlin, Jr., Louis Goldberg, Joseph E. Warner, A. Perry Richards and A. Chesley York.

FORD WILL TURN OUT 1,800,000 CARS IN 1923

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 18.—The Ford Motor Company plans to make 1,800,000 Ford cars in 1923, shattering all production records in the history of automobile making, it was announced today. This schedule calls for an output of nearly 450,000 more cars than were made in 1922, when Ford set a record with a production of 1,352,479.

Daily production now averages about 4,700 cars and will be stepped up to 6,000 in the near future. Ford now employs more than 80,000 persons, and when he reaches the 6,000 mark probably will employ more than 100,000.

The January production schedule calls for an output of 108,000 cars, and the February program is set at 147,000.

Production of Ford cars since last May totals 1,000,000, a record achievement.

Last year Ford made more cars than all other automobile manufacturers combined.

Sugars vary in quality, sweetening power and cleanliness. When you buy loose sugar in paper bags, you cannot know what you're getting. If your sugar has been exposed to dust, handling or insects, you have to eat it just as it is. You can't wash it or clean it.

For this reason, the safe way—and the economical way—to buy sugar is to order Domino Package Sugars. The sturdy Domino Packages bring you clean cane sugar of exceptional quality, always uniform and of the highest sweetening power. There cannot be any waste, spillage or exposure. Ask your grocer.

$50,000,000 IN NEW THEATRE MERGER

New York, Jan. 18.—Control of the majority of the theatres in the United States showing legitimate enterprise, and not those of New York City alone, was thought to be one of the aims of the proposed merger of the interests of the Shuberts and A. L. Erlanger and perhaps several of the independent theatre owners.

Confirmation of rumors that the deal was pending was obtained from both Mr. Erlanger and Lee Shubert.

The plan is said to involve approximately $50,000,000, and calls for sale of part of the stock to the public.

Unlike the merger attempted a year ago, it is now planned to include New York theatres as well as those playing first class attractions in all of the larger cities of the United States. It is estimated that the Shuberts and Erlanger already control about four-fifths of the theatres of the country, exclusive of motion picture houses.

"SORRY, BUT I LEFT BOOZE," SAID THIEF

'PASSING SHOW' FULL OF FUN AND BEAUTY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

A little of this and a little of that, with the stage banked on all sides by the fairest of the musical drama's debutantes in an assorted condition of undress—and you have "The Passing Show of 1922." There must be a whole lot more to these scrambled Winter Garden revues than is visible to the trained and naked eye, for the audience at the Shubert last evening nearly broke the house record in its outward manifestation of enjoyment at the parade of scenes, specialties and girls that chased each other across the stage and back again for three long, melodious hours.

With twenty-four lurid, flaming scenes flashing across your vision; with dancers competing with song birds and acrbats racing against comedians, where, in the name of your favorite prophet, is one to begin a description of this mad melange of riotous frolic. That the "Passing Show" is no small atom of theatrical endeavor let it be known that the list of craftsmen who loaned their talents to the making of the production are lined up on the program like the general staff of an invading army.

Primary interest in this edition of the "Passing Show" was centered last evening in Eugene and Willie Howard—with much of the emphasis deposited on Willie. Just where and when they entered the proceedings was difficult to determine, but they managed to ease into all the tight places and brush away any gloom that might be threatening the performance. Willie Howard's task was to keep the customers smiling—and he performed manfully.

In an artistic sense the performance was principally supported by the Lockfords—Zita and Naro—a pair of dancers imported from Paris for the purpose of thrilling American audiences. Their share in the entertainment was no small item but it would be almost impossible to decide whether they were dancers or acrobats. In any event they supplied a thrill worth feeling.

Another valiant toiler of the evening was your old friend of Castle Square stock days, George Hassell—much more ample in girth than when he was a regular dramatic actor, and much funnier. Fred Allen's before-the-curtain drolleries served the useful purpose of killing watts while the scenes were changed and at the same time providing something to lift drooping spirits.

If you should ask any of the Shuberts, you would be told that the real glory of Winter Garden productions are found in their two chief luxuries—the feminine and the scenic. We are already prepared to agree with them on that point. Ethel Shutta, heading her own brand of musical revue activity, made good and inspiring use of her blonde lovliness, and following close at her slippered heels was a double dozen of nimble toed girls. In scenic investment the "Passing Show" exceeded any of its numerous predecessors, and in costuming it more than held its own with the gaily dressed shows of the present period.

IMPOSING FILM SET MADE FOR MISS DAVIES

THE largest and most remarkable indoor set ever used in a motion picture, has just been completed for Marion Davies' next Cosmopolitan super-special, "Little Old New York." It is a representation of the Battery and Bowling Green as it looked a century ago, during which picturesque period scenes of "Little Old New York" are laid.

No studio in the world is big enough to hold this imposing set, which measures 200 by 300 feet and covers a floor space of 60,000 feet. Finally, through the co-operation of Colonel Thomas Foisevris, commanding officer of the famous 104th Infantry, the 23d Regiment Armory, at Bedford and Atlantic avenues, Brooklyn, was secured. Upon the drill floor, which measures 250 by 250 feet, a remarkable replica of Bowling Green and the Battery has just been completed.

HER FAMOUS LEGS.

Frankie Bailey, former stage beauty, who was once the toast of New York and whose legs were famous from the Atlantic to the Pacific, is appearing as an extra in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," first of the series of Fred Niblo productions. In an era long departed Frankie Bailey's legs in any musical show were guarantees of a surefire hit. They were as well known as Uncle Joe Cannon's cigar, old Doc Munyon's uplifted hand, and the wooden Indian in front of the tobacco shop. Those were the days when waists were in, hips were out, and when fashion decreed that even ankles should be hidden from view.

The victim was stabbed three times in the body. The stabbing came in the midst of a "party."

Studio Notes

* * *

Mae Busch, who appears as the divorcee in "Brothers Under the Skin," was born in Melbourne, Australia, but in every other respect is an American. She was educated in a convent at Madison, N. J.

* * *

Royal A. Baker, motion picture censor in Detroit, has turned author. He has sold an original screen story, "Frivolity," to Preferred Pictures for production later this season.

* * *

Alma Bennett has been loaned by Goldwyn to play the lead opposite Tom Mix in his latest production. Miss Bennett is a youthful brunette who is rapidly coming to the front.

After a search of six months, Lois Weber has finally chosen little Jane Mercer to play the role of "Jewel" in the production of Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham's novel. Little Jane is eleven years old, but is well known as a dancer and child actress.

HARDING TO STAY IN HIS ROOM TODAY

Washington, Jan. 18.—Continued improvement in President Harding's grippe attack was looked for today by Brigadier-General Sawyer, his personal physician, after signs of relief from the indisposition which confined the President to his room yesterday were noted before his retirement last night. No engagements were to be made for the President today, however, it was indicated, unless his condition showed marked improvement.

HULTMAN URGES NEW LAWS TO CURB 'RENT HOGS'

TENANTS PROMISED RELIEF

Courts to Be Asked to Allow Six Months' Grace to the Families Forced to Move

"It is almost a physical impossibility for tenants to move this Winter, yet many landlords are attempting to take advantage of this situation to make unjust increases in rents."

This statement was part of an arraignment of "rent hogs" by Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life before the Legislative Committee on Judiciary today.

The committee voted unanimously to report favorably a bill to allow courts to grant a helpless tenant six months in which to find another place to live. This bill is one of rent laws advocated by the Boston American. The committee also voted to report a bill requiring landlords to furnish adequate heat and other conveniences for which tenants are paying.

Mr. Hultman declared that all the anti-rent hog laws ought to be continued in force until the housing shortage is completely relieved. He said:

"In view of the fact that general rental charges show an excellent rate on the real values of real estate, the inhumane practices of increasing rents under existing conditions is intolerable."

JAMES C. POOR, ESSEX COMMISSIONER, DEAD

North Andover, Jan. 18.—James C. Poor, county commissioner of Essex County since 1918, died suddenly early today at his residence, No. 341 Sutton street. He was seventy years old. Mr. Poor was in the Legislature in 1900 and 1901. He was for years trustee of the Essex County Agricultural School. He served as selectman, overseer and highway surveyor here. He was a gentleman farmer. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Willard H. and Benjamin J. Poor and a daughter, Florence.

BOY COASTER BREAKS HIP IN ROXBURY

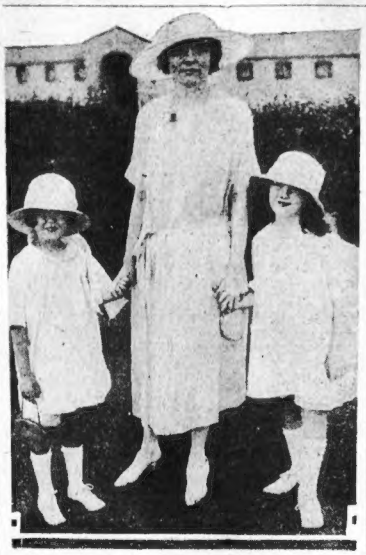
Arthur Savage, twelve years old, of No. 11 Herman street, Roxbury, while coasting on Dale street lost control of his sled and steered it into a stone wall. He is at the City Hospital with a fractured hip and bruises about the head and body.



MRS. F. O. FRENCH AND CHILDREN

Mrs. Francis Ormond French, New York and Newport society leader, has begun divorce proceedings against her husband. She asks no alimony, but asks the custody of her two children, Ellen and Virginia. Mrs. French is naming "one unknown woman" in her suit, and one occasion of alleged misconduct. A raid on her husband's apartment is said to have furnished the evidence.

GAS FIRMS FIGHT LIFE SAVING BILL

Mayor Curley's bill to require licensing of gasfitters was today denounced as "not worth a pinch of snuff" by former Attorney-General Albert E. Pillsbury, counsel for the Association of Massachusetts Gas Companies.

Building Commissioner John H. Mahoney informed the Legislative Committee on Public Health that deaths from accidental gas poisoning are occurring in Boston almost daily.

Health Commissioner Jordan and James W. Flynn, Boston Inspector of Gas, made corroborative statements.

Pillsbury said the deaths are "purely accident."

O'BRIEN DROPS 2 PELLETIER APPOINTEES

Miss Mildred Shields and James G. Wolff were today requested by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien to sever their connection with the district attorney's office.

It is expected that Assistant District Attorney Daniel W. Casey will also go, as it is the announced policy of Mr. O'Brien to replace all members of the staff who served under former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier with his own appointees.

Miss Shields came as a stenographer, and later became an indictment clerk. Wolff has served fifteen years, most of the time as messenger. Recently he was given the job of entering suits on defaulted bail bonds.

KABATZNICK SUES FOR BURNED PICTURES

Benjamin Kabatznick, widely known art dealer and friend of theatrical folk who gained notoriety at the time of Geneva Mitchell's black silk pajama escapades, today filed suit in Superior Court against Barton and Gertrude H. Leonard to reach and apply their stock in Leonard 7 Co., Inc., to make good for seventeen oil paintings lost in a fire at Leonard's auction rooms on November 15.

BOY BITTEN WHILE PLAYING WITH HORSE

While playing with a horse attached to a laundry wagon in front of his home, Samuel Feldman, eleven years old, of No. 32 Seneca street, South End, was badly bitten on the chest and in the face. At the Boston City Hospital his condition is not regarded as serious.

PATROLMAN IN FIGHT FOR LIFE WITH MANIAC

Battling with a maniac who flourished a three-foot club, Patrolman John Campbell of the Joy street station, finally succeeded in preventing the man from leaping to his death from a fourth-story window in the Hotel Bowdoin, West End.

The man was George H. Foster.

Responding to a telephone call from the hotel clerk, Patrolman Campbell went to the hotel, to find Foster on a rampage in one of the rooms. He forced his way in and grappled with the man, who defied the policeman to take him.

In the struggle draperies were torn from the walls, tables overturned and lighting fixtures dismantled.

Tossing his club aside, Foster dashed for an open window. The patrolman dragged him down just in time.

LIVING COST CHEAPER IN U. S THAN BRITAIN

London, Jan. 18.—The cost of living in the United States is far below that of England, F. A. Wilson Lawrenson, chairman of the New York Civitas Club, declared today.

"I am astounded at the cost of living here," he said. "America has reduced the high cost of living owing to a concerted effort of manufacturers to cut down prices, which are still being cut. America's retrogression prosperity has been largely due to this. The only way that England can solve the problem of unemployment is to reduce taxation and increase business."

COSTS BUT 50c TO HEAL SKINS WITH POSLAM

Fifty cents before the war, fifty cents during the war, fifty cents now—always the same quality, gentle, effective, healing. Poslam plays fair with its friends all the time!

And the most wonderful thing about Poslam is how little of it is enough to heal. Often a single 50c box will clear away a patch of eczema or other eruption that has been an itching torment for years! The first touch of this famous ointment cools the fiery skin and gives real, lasting relief.

Poslam Soap helps greatly in the treatment of skin troubles. Poslam and Poslam Soap are sold everywhere. For trial sample, send 10c to POSLAM, 245 W. 47th St., New York.

TREMONT STREET, NEAR WEST

A price tag can't tell you the whole truth about silk hosiery.

PRICE tags catch your eye. But all they can really tell you is whether an article is relatively cheap or expensive.

Judged by the price, Century Brand silk stockings might seem to be merely an average grade of hosiery. There are any number of more expensive makes, and many that cost less than Century Brand.

And of course you can buy silk stockings that are sheerer, more elaborate, or heavier in weight.

But for actual value in fine appearance and long wear you cannot buy better silk hosiery at any price.

There are two grades of these beautiful full-fashioned stockings:

1. All silk [ingrain] with lisle-lined garter top and sole.
2. Pure-dye silk with lisle top and sole.

Don't judge Century Brand hosiery by what it says on the price tag—

CONVICT WHO ESCAPED AND RETURNED SEEKS PARDON

BEAT AND ROBBED BACK BAY WOMAN

Victor L. Nelson's Plea to Cox Backed by Mrs. Storrow and Clergyman

Victor F. Nelson, who escaped from Charlestown State Prison, then surrendered and returned, now seeks pardon. The State Parole Board granted him a hearing today.

Nelson was sentenced to a three-to-five year term in December, 1920, for assault and robbery of Miss Emma Harris in her Massachusetts avenue apartment. He robbed her of $1,400 in cash and jewelry.

May 21, 1921, Nelson escaped from prison. He climbed up the steel bars of one of the prison wing windows, clambered over a wall, dropped twenty-five feet to the ground, ran to the Boston & Maine tracks and kept on.

HEARD OSBORNE.

Four months later he slipped into a Cincinnati lecture by Thomas Mott Osborne, the prison reformer. After hearing Osborne talk Nelson made himself known, was kept at Osborne's Auburn, N. Y., home a week, then was returned to Charlestown to serve out the rest of his term.

He was given one and one-half years more for escaping. He has served only two years of his original sentence so far. Under the three-year maximum of his sentence and the extra time for escape, he has two and one-half years to go, or more sentence than he has so far served.

REFERRED BY COX

But he applied for pardon to Governor Cox, who referred his petition to the parole board. That body, of which Henry A. Higgins is acting chairman, went to the prison and heard Nelson's plea today.

Mrs. James J. Storrow and the Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, pastor of Arlington Street Church, appeared in Nelson's behalf. Thomas Mott Osborne, who has been in touch with Nelson, called on him at the prison Tuesday.

GARAGE, BAKERY AND 15 AUTOS DESTROYED

Windsor, Vt., Jan. 18.—Fire today destroyed a garage and bakery in the centre of the town, causing at least $50,000 damage. The fire started from unknown origin in the bakery, a two-story structure, which was completely gutted. It then spread to the garage ten feet away. Fifteen automobiles, repairing machinery, and a large quantity of gas and oil were destroyed. The garage is owned by O. M. Greeley.

GAS FROM HEATER NEARLY KILLS WOMAN

Failure to extinguish a gas heater before going to bed nearly caused the death of Amelia L. Walsh, seventy-six years old, of No. 17 Cutler street, Winthrop. The old lady lit the heater and retired. The gas was blown out by a breeze from an open window. George L. Pickett, a janitor, broke down the door and found her unconscious in her bed. Police brought a pulmotor and she was saved after a half hour of work.

$50,000 GIVEN TO NEAR EAST RELIEF

The Christmas appeal of the Massachusetts Near East Relief Committee has brought in contributions amounting to $50,000 thus far, according to Dr. W. A. Bartlett, the State director, today. Included among the large contributions were: Mrs. William Emerson, Cambridge, $500; Mrs. Sybylla R. C. Astrella, $241.93, and Charles McC. Beebe, Wellesley, $200.

SERVICE NORMAL IN 6 WEEKS

New Haven Officials Promise Quincy Commuters Train Will Then Be on Time

Train service on the New Haven Railroad will be normal, barring the unforeseen, in less than six weeks. By that time trains will leave and reach stations as per schedule.

This was the assurance given a committee of members of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce today by Vice-President A. P. Russell of the road, following a conference at the South Station.

C. L. Bardo, general manager, said the rolling stock of the road was undergoing repairs and that several engines would be added to the service within a short time.

J. Winthrop Pratt, chairman of the train service committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed the delegation, the other members being A. D. ## RELIGIOUS ROW IN CLUB

Mrs. Cram Quits as Leader Because It "Mixes Politics and Religion"

Religious differences wrecked the harmony of the Woman's Democratic Club of Missouri settlement house, resulted in Mrs. Alice E. Cram, founder and president, resigning, and in the resignation of Mrs. Gertrude Lewis O'Leary, vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to the presidency.

The appeal of Miss Jeanne D. Brannan, recently appointed organizer of the National Women's Party in Massachusetts, for equal rights for women, caused the storm. She urged the Democratic women to support the platform of the party, which is for [illegible] amendment.

"But women should not be barred from ministry or any [illegible] in the church," said Mrs. Cram. "I refuse to be affiliated with women who mix politics and religion. If I can't work for women in the Democratic party, I will work for them in the National Women's Party, which secures both men and women, opposed to all progressive movements. They bring the church into everything. The trouble with Democratic women, so-called, is that they will not register and come out as Democrats. I had hopes that the women would be more progressive than the men. If anything, they are more reactionary."

SCISSORS HOLD WILL GET SEVERE TEST

By JACK CONWAY.

Joe Stecher, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will attempt one of the greatest feats ever performed for by a mat star when he battles Georges Calza, champion, and George Kotsonaros, Greek title holder, at the Grand Opera House tonight in a show which will be staged under the direction of the Old Howard management.

Stecher has agreed to toss Calza and Kotsonaros in one hour and a half. As Joe has won many of his important bouts with international figures in the mat game inside of twenty-five minutes, he is of the opinion he will be able to dispose of Calza and Kotsonaros.

The famous scissors hold will be called upon to bring about the downfall of the Italian and Greek idols. This hold is applied by encircling the legs around the body and then putting on pressure against the lower part of the stomach. The wind is cut off, the victim gasps, loses his strength and flops over on his back in defeat.

Few wrestlers have been able to keep away from the scissors hold. There is no escape from it once it is started on its work. A wrestler must prevent Stecher from getting this hold in the first place if he is to avoid defeat.

Calza has proved he can break the hold with ease. The Italian champion has tremendous power in his legs and can break away from a toe hold.

Even his most ardent admirers, however, do not believe he can break loose from Stecher's body scissors if Joe is successful in clamping on this hold.

The same stands true for hot scissors. The latter is a powerful fellow, but we hardly think he is good enough to talk his way loose so easy. Even Strangler Lewis could not do this.

Johnny Dundee Due to Reach Boston Today

Johnny Dundee was due to arrive in Boston today to start the finishing touches to his campaign preparatory to meeting Tommy Ryan, with Vincent Pecora as referee, which will be staged under the direction of the Federal Athletic Commission. Ryan is now putting in his days and nights at the Kelly & Hayes gym, but Dundee is with Martin and he ain't in this world to train. Martin will develop Dundee and leave the scene for the setting is called by Pepper in Broadway last night.

Reyes says Martin has one trick to earth slip and a speedy one, featured by Jack Dempsey in New York, and that he is giving preparation on his training. Tells me Reyes more than he's for Dundee.

Alex McLean Says Shevlin Will Win Over Dave Shade

Matchmaker Alex McLean of the Armory A. A., one of the keenest judges of boxers in this country believes that Eddie Shevlin will win over Dave Shade at the Arena A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building Monday night.

"Shevlin is one of the brainiest boxers in the world," says McLean. "He will not box at long range unless he has an advantage of that style of milling. At close quarters, Shevlin is sure to outscore Shade. And in all probability this is where Shevlin will decide to do his battling.

"I also think Shevlin would be able to outpoint Mickey Walker in a ten-round bout."

SAILOR BYRON IN BOUT AT SALEM

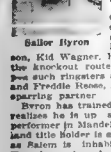
Salem fans should witness a good battle tonight. Sailor Byron, New England lightweight champion, will make his debut in the "Witch" City against the clever Philadelphia boxer, Jos. Mandil, who has been winning regularly since joining the Tunney forces.



Sailor Byron

The Quincy City youth has defeated such good boys as Charlie Hurley of Boston, Kid Wagner, Frankie Rose, the knockout route, and also over-threw such fingers as Joey Leonard and Freddie Rose, Benny Leonard's sparring partner.

Byron has trained diligently as he realizes he is up against a tough performer in Mandell. The New Bedford title holder is a French boy and as Salem is inhabited by many French people, a large crowd should turn out for the affray this evening.

Al Lewis of the South End will meet Charlie Shepard in the semi-final of eight rounds. There will also be two six-round bouts.

when he battles Georges Calza and George Kotsonaros at the Grand Opera House tonight.

"I don't believe that Stecher, or any other wrestler, can throw two such stars as Calza and Kotsonaros in one hour and a half," says Jack.

To win the match, Stecher must throw both men.

Burns and Perelli will win their matches," adds Jack.

CHAMPIONSHIPS FOR THIN PINS

The New England Bowling Congress will open the individual championship tournament on June 30 and continue to July 21.

J. J. Clancy.

This tourney will be staged at the Regent alleys, Arcadia, Arlington Centre and is open to all comers. Bowlers in New England who have averages of 190 or better will qualify for the finals.

A handsome gold medal valued at $100 will be awarded to the winner. Three wins in four other cash prizes.

It was left to recognized authorities of New England to decide if this title is the same one that was held by Jack Sharkey a few months ago. Jack's claim is worthy of consideration, as he won the championship in a bout with Jack Dempsey in New York in January, 1927.

Forfeits Posted for Pendleton's Bout With 'Unknown'

PAUL BOWSER.

All details have been completed for the wrestling match between Nat Pendleton and Paul Bowser, Unknown which will be staged at the Grand Opera House a week from tonight.

Pendleton and Bowser have both complied with the articles of agreement by posting $500 with John Conway, boxing and wrestling expert of the Boston American. The forfeit is for appearance.

The articles of agreement further call for Bowser and Pendleton putting up a side bet of from $1,000 to $5,000.

There will be more money involved in this match than in any mat contest ever staged in New England.

Who will be Bowser's unknown? Nobody knows.

TECH'S HOCKEY TEAM WINS FROM B.U.

Technology battled its way to its second victory over Boston University in a slow but tight game, and feasted the Back Bay collegians, 3 to 1.

Preene the Tech right wing, was the brilliant performer. He was responsible for the Engineers' two tallies. Nickle, the Tech goal, played his usual wonderful game at goal and prevented B. U. from scoring by many fine stops.

Tech scored its first goal in the first period with less than two minutes to play. In the second period either team secured a goal, but in the last three minutes after the opening of the third period Sterling of Boston University left wing, tied the score. Later he suffered a bad cut on the cheek, but he refused to leave the ice. The period ended with the score tied and both teams agreed to play two more five minute sessions.

Just as the whistle blew at the end of the first, Preene shot the second goal. Boston University failed to score in either extra session.

MISS FLEETWOOD SWIMS TONIGHT

Dorothy Fleetwood, better known as "Bon Tiger," will make her debut in the Bay State tonight when she appears at the Brookline Public Baths in the National Championships.

This youthful prodigy, who is only fifteen years of age has been acclaimed as one of the country's best women swimmers.

Dorothy Fleetwood

Miss Fleetwood has been within a fifth of a second of the world's record.

Tonight's meet will be held under the Amateur Athletic Union sanction and will be for the Women's Senior 50-yard and Junior National 150-yard backstroke.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY ADOPTS REGULATIONS

Students at the College of Business Administration of Boston University must be candidates for the degrees and must be registered for at least twelve academic hours a week in order to be certified to the Athletic Council as eligible to participate in university athletics, according to the decision of the College of Business Administration faculty, made at a special meeting.

This decision means that beginning next September, evening division students of the department of the university will not be able to participate in intercollegiate competition.

TENNIS racquets have their uses, but we never could see why people strap them on their feet and go chasing pneumonia. But that's one of our great Winter madnesses. Look around any big orchard and you can see birds and birdies, supposed to be skimming over the landscape, entertaining themselves from snow drifts.

Indians used to use them, which doubtless accounts for the disappearance of the race. But they had no place to go and no flivs to take them there, either. As soon as they were introduced to Firewater, they gave up the wahs. They had to.

Ray in Bad Again, for Taking Part in Boxing Match

Detroit, Jan. 18.—Joie Ray, crack runner of the Illinois Athletic Club, today was suspended until February 16, from A. A. U. competition, by Paul Hemming of Detroit, chairman of the Central A. A. U. Registration Committee. Hemming declared the action was taken because Ray had taken part in two unsanctioned boxing matches in Chicago last October.

TIGERS DEFEAT COLUMBIA, 14 TO 0

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 18.—The Princeton hockey team played rings around Columbia sextet and completely swamped the Blue and White, 14 to 0.

This marked the fifth straight triumph for the Tigers. The Orange and Black skaters were masters of the situation from the very opening of the contest and overwhelmed the Morningside lads to such a degree in the initial period, that Coach Gaw was able to give most of his substitutes a chance to play in the final period.

The Tiger varsity combination opened the contest with a rush and before the end of the first period had accumulated eight goals. Chaley Davis, the centre and freshman captain last season, led the attack and scored the first three goals. Later in the contest he accumulated two more. Captain Van Gerbig and "Bus" Stout were also active. Each made three goals.

DEDHAM GIRLS GET THEIR "SIX" LETTERS

The members of the high school girls' hockey team, after a successful season, were awarded their letters. Principal Ralph W. Easton awarded them to the following girls: Ruth Riggs, captain; Alice Worth Morton, manager; Alice Colbert, Lorraine Finn, Margaret A. Donavon, Mary Cleary, Rena McDonald, Betty Chase, Gertrude Hendren, Dorothy Gibb, Ethel Wilson, Mary McAleer, Geraldine Clark, Eleanor Sennott and Laurie Benvie.

New Candlepin Record Set Up in Lynn Match

HOW RECORD WAS ROLLED.

| Player: | First. | Second. | Third. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Nestor | 126 | 122 | 143 | 391 |
| McNichol | 120 | 121 | 126 | 367 |
| Timson | 115 | 102 | 313 | |
| Riley | 117 | 116 | 119 | 352 |
| Gorman | 111 | 94 | 111 | 316 |
| Totals | 569 | 565 | 605 | 1739 |

A new record for candle-pin bowling has been set up by the Exchange team of the Intercity League at the Exchange Alleys, Lynn, in the weekly roll-off against the Palace team.

A total of 1739 for fifteen strings, bettering the former record of 1715, made and held jointly by the Revere and Chelsea team ten years ago.

Nestor was high man on the record-breaking five with a mark of 391 for three strings, while McNichols totaled up 367 for his three tries.

LEXINGTON'S NINE TO PLAY 14 GAMES

The Lexington High School nine will have a busy season. The team will play fourteen games.

Lexington will be a member of the Middlesex Interscholastic Baseball League, with Belmont, Reading and Stoneham, and six of the contests booked are league affairs. John Cassidy, known to his host of friends as "Buck," is captain.

The schedule follows:

April 20—Wilmington
April 25—At Woburn
May 2—Belmont
May 9—At Arlington
May 11—At Lexington
May 16—At Winchester
May 18—At Reading
May 23—Woburn
May 26—At Belmont.
May 30—At Stoneham
June 2—At Stoneham.
June 6—Reading

No Turf Clashes

According to the turf schedule the Kentucky Derby and Preakness will not clash. The Derby will be run May 19 and the Preakness a week earlier.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY LOSES BIG TACKLE

Boston University football prospects for 1923 received a blow when it was learned that Louis Koplow, giant tackle on last season's varsity eleven, had left college to go into business and will not be available.

Koplow, six feet four inches in his stocking feet and 235 pounds developed rapidly under the tutelage of Dr. Charles Whelan last season and in another year would have been one of the leading college tackles.

He was a candidate for shot putting honors on the track team.

GOLD SKATES RACES NEW ENGLAND'S BIGGEST WINTER EVENT

MORE THAN 700 BOYS AND GIRLS ENTER

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through Monday will come the final deluge of entries for the coming GOLD SKATES RACES.

The majority of the 700 boys and girls and young men and young women already entered in the races received yesterday the set of entry blanks mailed to them on Tuesday, with instructions to interest their friends and fellow skaters in the big ice races, and before the date for closing the entry list—Monday, January 22—it is expected that the total number to compete will exceed 1,000, thus making the event the greatest Winter sports undertaking ever conducted in New England.

Fourteen ponds and playgrounds already have entry lists sufficiently large to assure excellent competition in the first series of races, and double that number of skating places probably will provide lists of contestants equally large before the time for entering the races has passed.

Sallie Egan

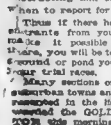
On next Tuesday the complete list of ponds and playgrounds, where preliminary races will be staged, will be announced, and later in the week each entrant will receive a letter from the GOLD SKATES EDITOR of the Boston American instructing him or her where and when to report for the trial event.

Thus if there have been too few entrants from your playground to make it possible to stage races there you will be told at which playground or pond you shall report for your trial races.

Many sections of Boston and the suburban towns and cities were represented in the list of names forwarded the GOLD SKATES EDITOR this morning, and again the note of confidence is stated in letters which have accompanied some of the blanks.

Joe O'Brien of No. 87 Norton street, Lynn, wrote:

"I am interested in the GOLD SKATES RACES for two reasons. First, I like the sport and am confident that everybody entered will receive a good deal, and, second, I'm planning to win the GOLD SKATES which go to the Greater Boston champion in the boys fourteen to sixteen years of age."



Christopher Tuka

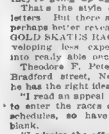
"This talk about entrants who claim they are going to win the bunk. I have a record to back me up. Only last year I won the championship of Lynn and received a cup from ex-Mayor Creamer, and I've got the winning habit this year. Just print that and let some of those 'bold' readers what they're going up against."

That's the style of many of the letters. But there are others which perhaps better reveal the aim of the GOLD SKATES RACES—that of developing less experienced skaters into ready able ones.

Theodore F. Peterson of No. 35 Bradford street, Needham, showed he has the right idea when he wrote:

"I read an appeal for older skaters to enter the races and balance the schedules, so have forwarded my blank.

"I admire the effort of the Boston American and the grand support of the Winchester, Brine, Partridge, Spalding and Wright & Ditson sporting goods stores and the Gregory & Read Shoe Company, in the attempt to give the boys and girls of Greater Boston a chance to get some new records. I am sure, from the large list of entrants, you will not be disappointed.



Carrie Zundell

"For myself, I'll say I'm not a speed artist, but at least I'm a sport and a good loser. Still I might surprise myself and win something. Who knows?"

And Michael Rizzo of No. 1304 Washington street, Boston, and Walter Mc'Igue of No. 34 White place, Brookline, have much the same idea.

Wrote Michael:

"I had not intention of entering the GOLD SKATES RACES, but having skates, which some boys are not fortunate to own, I decided to enter. This is a splendid opportunity for everyone, and surely no one can lose anything by trying."

Walter said this:

"I am sending in this blank to tell you that I can't skate very well, but I'm willing to try, and perhaps by next year I can win some of the prizes."

Today's entries were:

MICKEY WALKER IS TO SIZE UP RIVALS

Mickey Walker can well be considered a real champion. In his few fights since he won the title, Mickey has done most of the fighting. He doesn't bother about the jeopardy of his championship, but goes in there to fight.

Mickey Walker

There isn't the least doubt that he will become a real favorite, for he gives the fans a run for their money. Too bad we can't say the same about the other lads that have titles in safe deposit vaults.

Walker will be in Boston next Monday night for the Shevlin-Shade bout at the Arena A. C.'s show. Mickey will size up the rivals in Monday's Boston American and also report the contest.

Trinity Football Dates

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 18.—The Trinity College football schedule is as follows:

September 29, Connecticut Aggies.
October 6, Worcester Tech.
October 13, Lowell Tech.
October 20, Hobart.
October 27, Union.
November 3, Bates at Lewiston.
November 10, Amherst at Amherst.

The place of the game with Hobart remains undecided, but it will be at Albany, Geneva or Binghamton, N. Y.

BOSTON'S BOXERS WIN TRI-CITY TOURNEY

The first international trio of boxing tournament, which was staged at Mechanics Building among Toronto, Pittsburgh and Boston boxers proved a rousing success in every way, for both the boxers and the large gathering of fans on hand for the long night's entertainment.

Boston gathered all the honors in the intercity matches and sent the visiting gladiators away with little three rounds or nothing. The only outsider who was able to gather any laurels in the evening's program was Charlie [illegible] of Toronto, who defeated Dick Jasse of Revere [illegible]

EAGLE'S BASKET TEAM MEETS PURPLE

Boston College will clash with Holy Cross at the Girls High School on Saturday night. The Eagle five has played only one game thus far, that resulted in a victory over Lowell Textile by a score of 30 to 29 after two overtime periods were required to break the deadlock.

Melley, Murphy and Hickey, veterans of last year's team, will start against Holy Cross. Coach Cosby has held two stiff practice sessions in preparation for the contest and believes his team has a chance to defeat the Purple.

Riapel, captain-elect of the football team, will play one of the back positions for Holy Cross against Dinger, another grid man, is a sub back who will probably get into the game.

REEL I.

THE janitor of the Yeastside Chemical Research Laboratories is mopping up the poker chips and cigarette butts. He works from the sides of the large room toward the center and is almost finished when he discovers a man's body. Turning it over he cries—SPOKEN TITLE: "By Jove, if it isn't Prof. Ben Zene, the discoverer of the intoxicating properties of alcohol, dead as a doornail!"

To give the alarm he hurriedly touches off a demijohn of nitroglycerine, bringing the police in large numbers and also Flora N. Fauna, the professor's secretary. Quickly sensing that something is amiss Flora says—SPOKEN TITLE: "Foul work has been done." The police applaud her perspicacity.

From among the policemen steps Lee Ing Kee, the best detective who orders the cops to it. Thus—SPOKEN TITLE: Outside, you bunglers. Me and the girl will solve this mystery. Can't you see by her horn-rimmed spectacles that she's smart?" The cops FADEOUT

REEL II.

At sea in the Caribbean Flora and Lee are on their honeymoon. They have not solved the mystery yet but have been married in advance in order to give a new twist to the picture. They are seated in stranger chairs watching the children playing roulette.

Along the deck creeps a shadow. It is the profile of an evil face, more evil than the landlord's. The shadow's hand is upraised. It bears an evil knife. It hangs treacherously over Lee and Flora!

Quick flash to ship's cook ringing dinner bell. Flash back to our happy couple just regarding shadow. The honeymooners hear the dinner bell and dash out of their chairs just as the shadow's knife falls on empty air. FADEOUT

REEL III.

We are now in Miramonk Cave. Flora and Lee peer into the lake. A tail fin splashing across the face of the waters in the evil shadow. Back to our hero and heroine. It hovers on the edge of the lake when its fore fins and it plunges backward into the lake. Flora and Lee shout—VOCIFEROUS TITLE: "Fooled. Leaving the grim cavern, they step into a gondola and are soon in the centre of the Sahara Desert. A thin red line, having the appearance of a new lead, across the sands to the horizon. They follow it but are horrified to note that the closer they get to the horizon it's farther away it seems. Like a sundrop in a little boy's mouth we DISSOLVE into—

REEL IV.

The Yeastside Laboratories. Professor Zene's tail fin in its same spot. Lee and Flora enjoy Lee turning over the body, shaking it, coughs and says to Flora—SPOKEN TITLE: "He's only taking a nap." Then, realizing—A FLUNATORY TITLE: "Of course, He always was a bit eccentric."

Consolation, Anyway

A fair young lady on her first visit to Scotland was passing a few days with friends attempting to play the national game of golf.

She was not very good, to such her style was prone fit.

It was the fourth hole, she had attempted to drive and for the fourth time the ball was indistinct and her driver slipped out of her hand and flew away over the furze bushes.

"If you keep on at that rate," remarked the caddie, "you will soon be champion of Scotland."

"Do you mean that?" she answered in wonderment.

"Aye," replied the caddie "at throwing the hammer!"

Slightly Scared

Pat Doyle had a remarkably loud voice. One night on coming he walked into the Village Inn and shouted out:

"Good morning, landlord! How are you?"

"Very well," came the reply. "How are you?"

"Oh, I'm about frozen—I can hardly talk."

Just then a nervous traveler, who was present ran up to the landlord, exclaiming:

"Please have my horse and trap brought around as soon as possible."

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the landlord.

"Nothing. Only I want to get away before that man thaws!"

Mike jumped from the track, but Pat dropped his shovel and took to his heels in front of the train.

"Why didn't ye git off the track, ye fool?" demanded Mike.

Loved a maiden from a land
Quite unclothed.

He made the maid his wife
And he taught her all the life
That was civilized.

That was civilized
From the diamonds in her ears
Or the brooch upon her breast
And the load of heavy rings
No one ever could have guessed
That once she was Uncivilized.

This Day in History, January 18, 1923

THIS is the anniversary of the end of the famous War of the Roses, in 1486, when Henry VII., who defeated Richard III. at Bosworth Field, married Elizabeth of York, thus uniting the two factions—York and Lancaster.

YOU are dominant, ambitious and vain glorious, and rather given to living and thinking in the grand manner. Today is one of the extremes of fortune. The good are apt to perish and the evil to flourish. Keep your own counsel and perform only your routine duties.

AS IN A MIRROR

A Story of a Wife's Fascination at the Seashore and How Another Woman Perhaps Prevented Her From Ruining Her Life

By Charlotte Lee Barrows

SHE was plump and pink and pretty, with a thoughtful brow and rosebud mouth, and eyes to go with either an occasion called. Wallal touch dwelling on such ideas had left her face a look of pure strength. She was very young, though three years and the half-scornful pose of her head was charming.

Lauretta stopped on the trail ahead. She stopped to listen, and then with a shrug of distaste turned from the path and clambered up the steeper way to camp. It was the cottage crowd who were beyond, with the Ellsworth woman as their life, and she did not wish to know them better. Already they had offered friendliness, but she would have none of them in spite of their wealth and beauty.

Opened Her Letter

Under the shadow of a great rock she sat and opened her letter. The written words were from the man who had touched her six weeks at the seaside with romance as faint and sweet as the wild rose odor that came to her from beyond the ferns. He had managed somehow to give her the flavor with him of all substance. It was intoxicating, but it did not touch her life with dear old David.

Of course it would not do for dear old David to read the letter, but that there was harm in it to speak like [illegible] that it would not do. She did not ask herself why. She had answered that line a dozen times, and now it to David and now she stopped here to read the response which had come so unexpectedly soon. She was surprised at the prompt reply and the length, most of all at the subtle undercurrent of emotion.

An interruption came. The Ellsworth woman, just beyond the fern screen, greeted a gigantic guide. The latter, standing on the many pointed toes and scanning the knoll [illegible] she would soon [illegible] proposition.

The other flushed hotly.

"Home letters will not keep," she said, "I was so greedy of home news to wait."

She was not accustomed to lie, and it hurt, but she could not brook classification with this woman who was not of her sort.

"Why, then, I'll leave you to solitude," she said [illegible] to neighbors of home."

Shrugged Her Shoulders

She had not moved when the Ellsworth woman again [illegible] her, looking as needs apologetic as for her was possible.

"You were not over-civil just now," she said, the same cool will of compromise in her [illegible] "but I don't hold a grudge," she nodded a [illegible] below. "Your husband is coming along the trail." Her eyes were on the fat letter.

And what if he is" she countered flippantly.

The Ellsworth woman shrugged her shoulders [illegible].

"Why—nothing, [illegible] with her eyes on the letter [illegible] I'd thank you to [illegible] me. My husband does not approve [illegible] letters. I meant it kindly."

She still spoke [illegible] to travel [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by cranky [illegible] [illegible] choicest [illegible] wild flowers so that the young [illegible] [illegible] ing as her business [illegible] [illegible] but thrust the letter into her [illegible] and go to meet him under the Ellsworth woman's [illegible].

At supper time, when David had gone for water, she set her mouth in a stern, very firmly and thrust the letter into the camp fire's flame.

How many long years have brides mentally scampered and bridesmaids scurried to make it possible for her to live up to these ancient "requirements for perfect happiness ever after?" One may not be superstitious—Oh, no!—but as one not superstitious brids calmly declared: "Why run any unnecessary hazard?"

Isn't there, you may agree, sufficient causes of nervousness in those minutes just before the wedding? Or, would you argue—aren't there enough wedding ceremony problems anyway, without adding others?

And yet, why should any bride be nervous? Why should every bridesmaid be even more nervous than the bride?

Ah, can it be that the nervousness of even the most love-certain bride is caused by her wonder if she'll throw that bridal bouquet straight? And can even the most self-assured bridesmaid be crested by her fear that she may not catch that bouquet and so be certain to be the next bride?

Or, is there some thrilling, throbbing theatric as well as dramatic wine in the very air of the house that houses a wedding which goes to the heads as well as to the hearts of everyone?

"Something old"—the wondrous ceremony which makes two, one!

"Something new"—the love which fills the bride's heart!

"Something borrowed"—the form of the veil which countless brides have worn before!

"Something blue"—the glorious color of that portion of the sky in which is treasured the happiness that shall be theirs "for better, for worse, until death do us part!"

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Park Mason Appears, Gets a Calm Welcome From Mabel, and Suggests a Celebration Which Will Be "Gilded and Expensible"

By Ann Lisle

IF any one but Park had trampled on conventions and had burst into speech without greeting or pause for introduction, it might have been offensive. But he has a way of combining the noble Peter Pan and the scion of aristocracy in his manner. As I've heard him [illegible] phrase it, young Wayne Parkinson. Third, can occasionally "get away with murder." Mabel stood poised for flight, in one of her magnificently remote poses that had all its best Goddess of Liberty beauty and splendor. But across her lips there flitted a tolerant and amused smile such as I've seen Oliver and no one else call there.

"Hello, child!" I cried accepting the fact of Park's being here at all and the way he was doing it as I added: "And in case you don't consider the introduction superfluous, I'll present you to Miss Storrs, Mr. Parkinson."

Park Chuckled.

"Park's the name," chucked the youth, coming across and smiling down at Mabel warmly. "And the same young Park is mighty glad to meet you—and hopes some day you'll be the same."

"Why—I believe I'm glad now," said Mabel, smiling at Park with something of the warm, elderly tolerance Miss May shows him.

"Snappy come back!" exclaimed Park heartily. "And now let's have a party to celebrate. I'm all for making it very gilded and expensible. My club, say I'm bither in a mood of black butterflies and blues, and I'm strangely uplifted now and ready to celebrate. So let's go hither."

"You might tell us what you were, blue about—and what you are ready to celebrate," I insisted with a little mischievous intent in the back of my brain.

"Sure," said Park amiably. "I was blue over the diverting of my house party. Blue over the return of Mrs. Winston so inopportunely. I felt I would never like that woman. And now I'm on my knees apologizing to her. Didn't she get me acquainted with Miss Storrs?"

I looked at Mabel, prepared to see her brow creased in frowns. But she was smiling good naturedly. It came to me in a flash that she was accepting Park as a child—and a precocious one with a talent for clowning. As nothing could be better for her in her cynical mood than her present reaction and a continuation of Park's present conduct, I gave due thanks to Hetty or whatever cause it was that had sent him so opportunely across Mabel's path.

"Come on, let's blow along to lunch!" cried Park, giving the phrase the insistence of a refrain. "You owe me a couple of charming guests, Mrs. Anne Harrison, and when Aunt May told me whose you were I dashed over to collect. I need something to cheer me after getting the info from Pat Dalton that my poor old dad ain't a-goin' to have no house party this weekend. But maybe he is, after all. However—more of that anon. Now let's get our sturdy bark under weigh."

Bowled Over.

To my surprise Mabel didn't demur. Instead she said:

"It's very nice of you to include me, Mr. Parkinson. But after all, it's nice of me to include you—for you've walked right into one of my most precious engagements—lunch with Mrs. Harrison. I'll just run out to tidy up a bit and leave you folks in charge while I'm gone."

"Say, Mrs. Anne Harrison, the door just closed on a—a queen!" cried Park, staring at the spot where Mabel had stood a moment before. "I think I'm bowled over. I think I'm hit by Cupid's dart, and all that sort of thing, don't you know. Miss Storrs, you said we could be pushed or fiance in the offing, is there?"

"Silly child!" I laughed "Mabel Storrs is divorced from her first woman, but still young enough to resent the sort of nonsense your Aunt May adores. You must distinguish between them. You really can't treat them both according to one formula."

LAND O' DREAMS

NEW SERIES BY NOTED PSYCHO-ANALYST

By Hereward Carrington, Ph. D.

Noted Writer and Author of Works on Psycho-Analysis

THE question has often been asked, "Is life all a dream?" Shall we one day awaken in a world of reality and find that we have been dreaming what seems to us an real here to after all, a mere mental sad so.

The Hindus believe this. They believe that the life is a dream and that our dreams are also dreams. When we die we make up and find that we have been dreaming in both states.

The average common sense man upon hearing such a view for the first time would probably say, "Oh, well, I can pinch myself. Then I can show that I am really here. It hurts." But if you have attained a certain control over your dreams, and in your dream state you say, "Now, to prove that I am really here, and that this life is a fact, I am going to pinch myself"—in your dream you will find that you can pinch yourself and that it hurts so that this test is fulfilled. The test that you can think of, as applied to the dream body, is the same as if applied to the physical body, so that it is impossible, from this point of view, to distinguish between the two, and establish reality.

That being the case, the question arises: How do we know that this life is not all a dream?

You will remember that, in "Alice in Wonderland," Alice encountered Tweedledee and Tweedledum in the forest. Together they saw the king asleep there. Tweedledum said, "What do you suppose he is dreaming about?" Alice replied, "How could I know that?"

Why," replied Tweedledee, "he is dreaming about you, of course."

Alice said, "How do you know Tweedledum replied, "Well, you are here; that shows that you are being dreamed about. You are just a thing in his dream. If he stopped dreaming about you you would go out just like a candle flame."

Alice had no reply to this, and at, she could say was, "I know they're talking nonsense."

So to the practical man, the idea that life is all a dream is just as much nonsense as that idea was to Alice, but he would have as great difficulty in disproving it as she did, because every test that he would apply to show that life was a reality could also be applied to show that the dreamer really existed while he was dreaming! So you see there is something to be said in favor of this view after all.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

A Stolen Kiss

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

The other evening I attended a dinner and dance given at the office where I am employed. During the course of the dinner one of the brilliant young men in the office placed a piece of mistletoe directly over my head.

Immediately another young gentleman jumped up and kissed me. I was startled at first, but I laughed it off because all the other members of the force enjoyed it and, of course, I joined in. I like the young man very much, because he is attractive and decidedly popular with the girls and I have every reason to believe he likes me. Now a general discussion has come up. Should I outwardly have resented his action? I myself do not think so. It is my belief that all the rest of the girls were jealous.

What is your answer?

M. W.

TO have stressed this incident would have been in very poor taste. You would only have given the impression of reading into it more than was intended—a public and frolicking exhibition of holiday jollity. Such a little incident is harmless if the spirit of it is kept free from taint, and I am sure the men concerned are not sitting around discussing it. Just think of it as a bit of holiday stagging and forget it.

In Love, But Too Late

I am twenty-one years. As far as my material wants are concerned, everything is all right. Two years ago my engagement was broken by mutual consent, as we found we never really loved each other. But I found, after he had gone, that I loved him and although I have tried to forget him it is impossible. My parents urge me to settle down and I am made to feel I am a burden although I have a pretty good position.

What shall I do? It's awfully hard to keep smiling all the time and I fear my parents only let me alone I would, in some measure, forget all my painful memories.

DESPERATELY.

HOW do you know that the man you once thought you loved and then parted from because you felt you did not care is not going through similar reactions to you? I have an idea that if you were to meet again, you would be able to lay your "ghost" one way or another. Possibly you are just cherishing a dream.

CAUSES OF CATARACT

—By Brice Belden, M. D.—

CATARACT is a loss of transparency of the crystalline lens. The lens is a perfectly transparent body, suspended in the eyeball just back of the pupil. It refracts or bends the rays of light which enter the eye. Its function is to concentrate the rays of light so that they come to a focus on the retina, which is the part of the eye with which we see. This is done by the lens changing its form as condition require. In a cataract the lens becomes opaque.

Cataract is always the result of some interference with the nutrition of the lens. It may be present at birth, or may appear shortly after birth as a result of some nutritive disturbance. It may appear at any time during life, but is most common in people over fifty years of age.

Cataract causes loss of vision without pain. Other diseases of the eye may have the same symptoms. It is only by making an examination of the interior of the eye that the cause of a defect of vision which appears gradually and without pain can be detected. Whenever there is such a loss of vision a careful examination should be made in order to tell what disease is present.

The symptoms of cataract are: First, gradual loss of vision; second, spots before the eyes, third, double vision. The patient may see numerous [illegible] of one when looking with one eye only.

Early in the [illegible] of cataract, its growth may be prevented by proper treatment.

After cataract has once developed there is only one form of treatment that is effective namely, operation and removal of the [illegible] opaque lens.

The extraction of cataract is an operation usually accompanied by excellent results. The cataract is simply an opaque [illegible] To remove the cataract the lens must be removed. This is done by making an opening in the eyeball and pushing out the hardened lens through it.

After the removal of the lens in this fashion, it is necessary for the patient to wear strong artificial lenses to direct the rays of light on the retina.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Rubber stoppers should always be boiled in washing up after use, to get them entirely free from soap and so keep them from deteriorating. In the case of natural sponges which are used for soap, it is necessary in addition to rinse them frequently in hot water and ammonia.

4259. Here is another practical version of a practical garment—the ever ready cover all house or apron frock. It may be made of percale, linen, cretonne, sateen or lawn. Self facings, or bands, or piping of self or contrasting material are nice for trimming.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is 2¾ yards. A medium size requires 4½ yards of 33-inch material. To trim as illustrated require ⅛ yard of contrasting material 36 inches wide.

A UNIQUE AND "UP-TO-DATE" DESIGN

4262. Here is a model that is exceedingly youthful, and one that displays the latest style features. The fullness over the waistline is held by straps that could be of braid or embroidered bands. The skirt has circular fullness, and measures 3⅝ yards at the foot.

The pattern is cut in seven sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 6½ yards of 36-inch material.

RENOVATING FURNITURE

—By Loretto C. Lynch—

"THREE years ago," says a reader, "I bought a mahogany dining room suite and an American walnut bedroom suite. All was well before the baby came, but now it is impossible to keep the furniture polished. It shows the baby's fingerprints. Is there any way to make it dull? Could I undertake to do it?

The better furniture shops advise the selection of what is termed the real antique finish when purchasing is being selected for such wear as it receives in a dining or living room. It is a rather dusty brown and dull finish. But looks wonderfully well against a creamy yellow background and requires practically no attention. Occasionally, a little wax, such as is used for the floor, may be rubbed over this antique finish and the furniture then rubbed with a chamois cloth.

But, since your furniture is of the polished finish, you might just try waxing it once a fortnight and giving it a rub every few days. I think it highly inadvisable to try doing over the furniture yourself. Mahogany is about the most expensive of all woods and to my way of thinking none but the professional should attempt to change it.

Have you tried a department store estimate? You may find someone who will give an after-holiday priced concession well within your means.

TELL IT AT DINNER

A motor-car, driven by a very determined-looking young lady, had just knocked down a man, fortunately without injuring him.

She did not try to get away, but stopped the car and faced him manfully.

"I am sorry it happened," she said quite jauntily. "You should take more care when you are walking. I am an experienced driver. I have been driving a car for seven years."

"Well, replied the victim, "I'm not a novice myself. I've been walking for fifty-seven years!"

A tramp knocked at a farm house door and asked for the farmer. To that worthy he recited a tale of woe, and asked for a job. "Yes, you can have a job," said the farmer; "you can gather eggs for me if you promise that you won't steal any." "Sir," the tramp said, with eyes brimful of unshed tears, "you can trust me with anything on earth. For twenty years I was manager of the public baths, and I never took a single bath!"

SCHOOL A FRIEND

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO MAKE IT SO

By Wm. A. McKeever

Widely Known Lecturer and Author and a National Authority on Juvenile Problems.

"I NEVER voluntarily attended school a day in my life, and there are millions like me."

"When I quit at the beginning of the seventh grade I thought the school was a place of repression."

"A thousand times I have regretted that break or what then seemed like liberty. But later, when I saw the need of school, it was too late to go back."

Parents, what can be done to keep your boy from making this imaginary break for liberty? The foregoing is the sort of "Lamentation" of a man who is a life-long victim of a bad adjustment to his early schooling. There are droves of such boys in school today. Their custom is to quit as soon as restrictions will allow. After that, education tends to become mechanical. They become victims of the modern machinery of business and labor.

Now, I believe that certain definite things can be done to keep your boy or girl in school. If the teacher or principal will join you, you can most certainly win out and keep your child in the classroom where he belongs.

First, start with the theory of keeping your boy's mind and heart in school. You have worked on a system of merely forcing his body to attend. But if the mind is willing or desires to go, it will take the body along.

Now, continue with the idea of making your boy happy at school and because of the school.

Be patient with his "hard" studies and be satisfied to have him make a mere grade in those he most dislikes.

Find out what he most likes at school and help him get more of that. If it is some kind of fun or athletics, be for it. Help him get more.

Have the teacher try to decide what she or the school itself can do to make your boy more fond of her and her methods.

Affection for the teacher is in itself a powerful agency of instruction. If the child loves her he will open his heart and his mind toward what she wishes to teach him.

Struggle of the Last of an Ancient Line to Save Estate From Hands of Japanese

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of "Kindred of the Dust"

START THIS NEW STORY TODAY

The story opens on the Rancho Palomar, an extensive tract in Southern California. Old Don Miguel Farrel, alone on the heavily mortgaged rancho with only his last faithful retainer, Pablo Artelan, and the latter's expansive wife, receives a telegram from the War Department at Washington announcing the death in battle in Siberia of his only son, "Don Mike." The shock kills him. Don Mike arrives and finds a family of Parkers there, including a beautiful daughter, Kay. Mr. Parker is scheming to get the ranch and sell it to the Japanese. Don Mike asks him to bid on it and then refuses to sell.

Pablo tells Don Mike of Kay's meeting Conway

It is a Cosmopolitan Production, direction of Frank Borzage, and featuring Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw. It is released as a Paramount picture.

"DON MIKE has told us something of the indolent, easy-going natures of his people," Kay continued, as she tucked the note in her coat pocket. "I have wondered if, should he succeed in saving his ranch without too great an expenditure of effort, he would continue to cast off the spell of the 'splendid, idle forties' and take his place in a world of alert creators and producers. Do you not think, Mr. Bill, that he will be the gainer through my policy of keeping him in ignorance of my part in the refinancing of his affairs—if he dare bet a certain of victory up to the last moment? Of course, it would be perfectly splendid if he could somehow manage to work out his own salvation, but of course, if he is unable to do that his friends must do it for him. I think it would be perfectly disgraceful to permit a Medal of Honor man to be ruined, don't you, Mr. Bill?"

"Say, how long have you known this fellow Miguel?"

"Seventy-two hours, more or less."

He considered. "Your father's nerve has been pretty badly shaken by the Jap's attempt to kill Miguel. He feels about that pretty much as a dog does when he's caught sucking eggs. Why not work on your father now while he's in an anti-Jap mood? You might catch him on the rebound, so to speak. Take him over to La Questa valley some day this week and show him a little Japan; show him what the San Gregorio will look like within five years if he persists. Gosh, woman, you have some influence with him, haven't you?"

"Very little in business affairs, I fear."

"Well, you work on him, anyhow, and maybe he'll get religion and renew Miguel's mortgage. Argue that point about giving a Medal of Honor man another chance."

The girl shook her head. "It would be useless," she assured him. "He has a curious business code and will not abandon it. He will only quote some platitude about mixing sentiment and business."

"Then I suppose the battle will have to go the full twenty rounds. Well, Miss Parker, we're willing. We've already drawn first blood and with your secret help we ought to chew the tail off your old man."

"Cheerio." She held out her dainty little gloved hand to him. "See me when you need more money, Mr. Bill. And, remember! If you tell on me I'll never, never forgive you."

He bent over her hand and kissed it. His caress was partly reverence, partly a habit of courtliness surviving from a day that is done in California, for under that shabby old tweed suit there beat the gallant heart of a true cavalier.

When Miss Parker had ridden away with Pablo at her heels, Bill Conway unburdened himself of a slightly ribald little chanson entitled: "What Makes the Wild Cat Wild?" In the constant repetition of this query it appeared that the old Californian sought the answer to a riddle not even remotely connected with the mystifying savagery of non-domestic felines.

Suddenly he slapped his thigh. "Got it," he informed the parrot he had been trying to add for half an hour. "Got it! She does love him. Her explanation of her action is good but not good enough for me. Medal of Honor man! Rats. She could loan him the money to pay her father, on condition that her father should never know the source of the aid, but if they reduced their association to a business basis he would have to decide between the ranch and her. She knows how he loves this seat of his ancestors—she fears for the decision.

No Excuse

"And if he decided for the ranch there would be no reasonable excuse for the Parker family to stick around, would there? There would not. So he is not to be lost sight of for a year. Yes, of course that's it. Methinks the lady did protest too much. God bless her. I wonder what he thinks of her. One can never tell. It might be just her luck to fall to make a fuss with him. Oh, Lord, if that happened I'd shoot him. I would for a fact. Guess I'll drop in at the ranch some day next week and pump the young idiot. . . . No, I'll not. My business is building dams and bridges and concrete highways. . . . well, I might take a chance and sound him out . . . still, what's thanks would I get . . . no, I'll be shot if I will . . . oh, to the devil with thanks. If he don't like it he can lump it. . . .

"What makes the wild cat wild, boys,
Oh, what makes the wild cat wild?"

It was fully two weeks before Miguel returned to the ranch from the little hospital at El Toro. During that period the willows had already started to sprout on the last abiding place of Kano Taichi, the train had left the Farrel head and the Farrel attorney had had Andre Loustalot up in the Superior Court, where he had won a drawn verdict. The cash in hand was proved to have been deposited there by Loustalot personally; it had been subject to his personal check and was accordingly adjudged to be his personal property and ordered turned over to Miguel Farrel in partial liquidation of the ancient judgment which Farrel had against the Basque. A preponderance of testimony, however (Don Nicolas Sandoval swore it was all pecunia sua propria), indicated that but one quarter of the sheep found on the Rancho Palomar belonged to Loustalot, the remainder being owned by his foreman and employes. To Farrel, therefore, these sheep were awarded, and in some occult manner Don Nicolas Sandoval selected them from the flock; then, acting under instructions from Farrel, he sold them back to Loustalot at something like a dollar a head under the market value and leased to the amazed Basque for one year the grazing privilege on the Rancho Palomar. "In return for the signing of this lease and the payment of the lease money in advance, Farrel executed to Loustalot a satisfaction in full of the unpaid portion of the judgment. "For," as the sheriff remarked to Farrel, "while you hold the balance of that judgment over this fellow's head your own head is in danger. It is best to conciliate him, for you will never again have an opportunity to levy against his assets."

"I think you're right, Don Nicolas," Farrel agreed. "I can never feel wholly safe until I strike a truce with that man. Tell him I'll give him back his eight thousand dollar automobile if he will agree on his own behalf and that of his employes, agents and friends, not to bushwhack me or any person connected with me."

"I have already made him a tentative offer to that effect, my boy, and, now that the first flush of his rage is over, he is a coyote lacking in courage to kill. He will agree to your proposal, and I shall take occasion to warn him that if he should ever break his word while I am living, I shall consider, in view of the fact that I am the mediator in this matter, that he has broken faith with me, and I shall act accordingly.

Arrangement Made

The arrangement with Loustalot was therefore made, and immediately upon his return to the ranch Farrel, knowing that the sheep would smell his range for the few hundred days left to them, had all remained of the thousands that once had roamed El Alamar, rounded up those cattle and sold them. And it was in the performance of this duty that he discovered during the roundup, on the trail leading from the hacienda to Agua Caliente basin, a rectangular piece of paper. It lay, somewhat weather-stained, five up beside the trail, and because it resembled a check, he leaned easily from his horse and picked it up. To his amazement he discovered it to be a promissory note, in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, in favor of Kay Parker and signed by William D. Conway.

Pablo was beating the thickets in the river bottom, searching out some Spring calves he knew were hiding there when his master reined up beside him.

"Pablo," he demanded, "has Senor Conway been to the ranch during my absence?"

"No, Don Miguel, he has not."

"Has Senor Conway ridden Panchito over to Senor Conway's camp at Agua Caliente basin?"

"Yes, Don Miguel. I rode behind her, in case of accident."

"What day was that?"

Pablo considered. "The day after you were shot, Don Miguel."

"Did you see Senorita Parker give Senor Conway a writing?"

"I did, truly. She wrote from a small leather book and tore out the page whereon she wrote. In return Senor Conway made a writing and this he gave to Senorita Parker who accepted it."

"Thank you, Pablo. That is all I desire to know. . . ." And he was away again, swinging his lariat and whooping joyously at the cattle. Pablo watched narrowly.

"Now whatever this mystery can be," he soliloquized, "the news I gave Don Miguel has certainly not displeased him. Ah, he is a sharp one, that boy. He learns everything and without effort, yet for all his learning he talks but little. Can it be that he has the gift of second sight? I wonder."

Kay Parker was seated on the bench under the catalpa tree when Miguel Farrel rode up the palm-lined avenue to the hacienda that night; his face, as he dismounted before her, conveyed instantly to the girl the impression that he was in a more cheerful and contented mood than any he had observed since that day she had first met him in uniform.

She smiled a welcome. He swept off his hat and favored her with a bow which appeared to Kay to be slightly more ceremonious than usual.

"Your horse is tired," she remarked. "Are you?"

"Something accomplished, something done, has earned a night's repose," he quoted cheerfully. "Father has had task to comb this ranch for a few hundred head of cattle when the number of one's riders is limited, but we have gone the herd corralled at the old race-track." He unbuckled his old leathern chaps, and stepped out of them, threw them across the saddle and with a slap sent his horse away to the barn.

"You're feeling quite yourself again?" she asked kindly and hopefully.

"My foolish head doesn't bother me," he replied smilingly. "But my sadly battered heart—" he heaved a gusty Castilian sigh and tried to appear forlorn.

"Filled with mixed metaphors," she added. "May I sit here with you?"

She made room for him beside her on the bench. He seated himself, leaned back against the bole of the catalpa tree and stretched his legs, crossed from a long day in the saddle. The indolent grace of his back even roved over her appovingly before shifting to the shadowy beauty of the valley and the orange-hued sky beyond, and a silence fell between them.

"I was thinking today," the girl said presently, "that you've been so busy since your return you haven't had time to call on any of your old friends."

"That is true, Miss Parker."

"You have called me Kay," she reminded him. "Wherefore this sudden formality, Don Mike?"

"My name is Miguel. You're right, Kay. Fortunately, all of my friends called on me when I was in the hospital, and at that time I took pains to remind them that my social activities would be limited for at least a year."

Friends Called

"Two of your friends called on mother and me today, Miguel."

"Anita Sepulveda and her mother?"

"Yes. She's adorable."

"They visited me in hospital. Very old friends—very dear friends. I asked them to call on you and your mother. I wanted you to know Anita."

"She's the most beautiful and charming girl I have ever met."

"She is beautiful and charming. Her family, like mine, had become more or less decayed about the time I emigrated, but fortunately her mother had a quarter section of land down in Ventura County and when a wild-cat oil operator on adjacent land brought in a splendid well, the Sepulveda family was enabled to dispose of her land at a thousand dollars an acre and a royalty of one-eighth on all of the oil produced. The first well drilled was a success and in a few years the Sepulveda family will be far wealthier than it ever was. Meanwhile their ranch here has been saved from loss by foreclosure. Old Don Juan, Anita's father, is dead."

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

"YES, I've heard," said queer Timothy Tutt, "people claim I'm the neighborhood nut. All my kinsfolk declare I'm a dead one for fair, and I'll never get out of my rut. Now, it may be my critics are right, for I don't do much jassing at night and I do not complain that no man with a piano has yet taken me up for a fight. Friends insist (and their words may be true) I belong to an era that's through; I am out of weight, for I don't take up anything new. And yet, when I study their ways and the topics consuming their days, how they fidget and stew over cooks and home brew, I consider their comment a praise. For some folks who drive right on the dot and must have all their fads piping hot are the pollywog kind with the single-track mind, and I don't care about them a lot. 'Something New' is their slogan each day; every hour that's slipping away they want new hats or shoes, or new mixture for booze, while their thinking machine may decay. They treat life as a show with three rings; between cabbages, cabaret, kings; they have everything new save an idea or two, and they've really scant use for such things. They insist on the latest in hats and they want strictly up-to-date flats, while divorce records prove they keep right on the move in the matter of new-fangled spats. They create such amazing ado that they think they are putting things over, but, mind you, Timothy Tutt, from his place in a rut, "I can't see that they've anything new."

In a Hurry

"I can, therefore, recommend ladies to emigrate to that part of the world.

The lecturer paused and watched her, then remarked:

"I did not mean that it need be done in such a hurry as that."

MILLINERY FOR SPRING

By Rita Stuyvesant

THE new Spring millinery is making its appearance. Many purple and lavender chapeaux are shown for Spring and Southern wear. Fine Milan straw in the popular model turned back a little off the face, to show lovely Spring flowers in gay colors, is used, and there are many combination models of straw and velvet that are likable.

French blue, tangerine, red, citron and other bright colors are in vogue. Old-fashioned posies are making their appearance on modern hats, with quaint charm.

The turned down mushroom shape is introduced once more, because women are a little weary of the turned back model.

The more conservative millinery, for the matron, chooses black, taupe, navy blue for its tone, and uses feathers or wings for trimming.

Straw brims and velvet crowns are well liked, because they are so soft and adjustable. The larger hats are of this type.

Not only straw hats, but those of silk and crepe are shown for Spring, and sometimes the hat relies on its lines to insure its success. Or, perhaps, a rakish tassel, hung from the side, strikes a distinctive note.

Straw hats from last season may easily be recolored at home, and blocked if necessary. A bit of new trimming will often do wonders to freshen an old hat, and this possibility should not be overlooked.

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

By Ann Adams

MY DEAR MISS ADAMS:

A young man has taken me to the theater several times and I should like to reciprocate by asking him to tea or luncheon. However, as I live in a furnished room, this is impossible. Would it be all right to ask him to tea at a restaurant and inslist upon paying the check myself?

MISS X. X. Z.

ANSWER: You would embarrass the young man by carrying out your suggestion that the restaurant repast. I would suggest that you ask a girl friend if you might invite him to tea at her home since you cannot have him for tea at your own home. If you belong to a little club, you might ask him to tea or luncheon there and pay for the repast later. In this way you could explain that he would not be permitted to pay the check even if you allowed it.

Dicky and Happy Giggles Help Mama Ant

DICKY stopped to look at the crowd of tiny ants that lined the garden path. Great crowds of them surged first one way, then the other. They seemed so excited that Dicky was about to put his foot down on the one nearest him, when he heard a pleading little voice cry out to him:

"Please, please, little boy, don't crush me. I'm in terrible trouble!"

Dick lifted his foot without harming the little ant. "Oh, thank you ever so much. I'm Mama Ant, and a more peaceful little family than mine never lived in these parts, but this is my first year away from the old home and my family are not very strong. Our neighbors, who are much larger and twice as strong, have taken our cows away.

"Taken your cows away?" cried Dicky. "Why, I never heard of such a thing in all my life. Do you really mean it or are you joking?"

"Joking would be out of place just now," replied Mama Ant. "You see we've kept our cows, or aphis, hidden in the ground."

"Hidden in the ground!" Dicky exclaimed. "Why, I thought all aphis were found on leaves."

"No indeed," replied Mama Ant. "Some like the sunshine, and some like the dark. I bought that kind on purpose, so my neighbors wouldn't see them and take them away. But I suppose some of the younger ants must have told it to some of the neighbors, and therefore I knew it they were upon me and stole every one that we had."

"The very idea!" Dicky exclaimed. "If Happy Giggles knew that he'd——"

"I certainly would," laughed a merry voice, and Happy Giggles, the little elfin from Makebelieve Land, hopped up beside Dicky and Mama Ant. "What is that you are saying about me, little boy?"

Dicky jumped up and almost shook the little elf's arm off, he was so glad to see him.

"Why, Happy Giggles!" he cried, breathlessly. "You must help Mama Ant. Those terrible neighbors of hers have stolen all of her cows, and now she hasn't any cows at all. I just told her I knew if you heard about it you'd go and get every one of those cows back for her."

"Just a second," laughed the elfin. "You'll do no hunting nor fighting for cows. Your cows will come back to you before morning or I'll miss my guess." Without a word he flew over to the army of victors and waved his magic wand. Every cow they had taken from Mama Ant fell down on the grass in a dead faint.

Of course, the big ants became alarmed, and one by one dragged the cows back and laid them near Mama Ant's doorway.

"I'm sorry," the leader of the big ants laughed sheepishly. "I didn't know they were ill." And away he and his followers scampered.

Dicky, Happy Giggles and Mama Ant and her children started to carry the cows into the ant-hill, when they all jumped up and scooted in by themselves.

Mama Ant cried, she was so happy. She couldn't thank Happy Giggles and Dicky enough.

"Always remember, little Mama Ant," laughed Happy Giggles, as he started away, "hidden jewels are oftimes more sought after than those kept in plain sight. Drive your cows up for the sunshine once in a while, and I'm sure they'll never be bothered again."

Another Good-night Story Tomorrow

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

The late W. S. Gilbert tells an amusing story in a letter to a friend. Many years ago, he says, when the famous soprano, Jenny Lind, was singing at Heidelberg, the students welcomed her enthusiastically by taking the horses from her carriage and dragging it from the station to the hotel.

After the performance they serenaded her at her hotel. The next day, when she was to leave for Berlin, they dragged her carriage from the hotel to the station and sang an enthusiastic farewell to her.

Then as soon as the train had started they rushed in a body to the bedroom that they supposed she had occupied and, tearing the sheets from the bed, cut them in strips, and each student stuck a strip in his buttonhole and wore it all day long.

That afternoon a stout and very old gentleman said to an acquaintance, "Do you know, sir, I think these Heidelberg students are all mad!" "No," his friend replied, "they are fine, high spirited lads, but not mad."

"Well," said the old gentleman, "I'll tell you what they did to me. As soon as I had left my hotel this morning, a body of them rushed to my bedroom, dragged the sheets from my bed and tore them into strips, and now every one is wearing a strip in his buttonhole!"

ACTS OF KINDNESS

AND THE BIG PART THEY PLAY IN LIFE

By Beatrice Fairfax

An Acknowledged Authority on the Problems of Romance and Everyday Life

SOME of us have a tragic and unhappy way of summing up the world in terms of the cruel and unhappy things we have seen.

The other day a sensitive and imaginative friend of mine came to me with the tale of something she had come across in her reading. It appears that a woman—observing what appeared to be an airplane stationary against the skies, got out her field glasses and observed a great eagle with a little dog in its talons. The eagle was tearing at the dog's head with its powerful beak, and destroying its helpless prey with none to come to the rescue of what may have been some one's carefully guarded pet.

"That's life," said my friend cynically. "We protect those we love and we never know what ruthless power is going to swoop down on our cherished loved ones and carry them off and beat out their lives in the cruelest manner imaginable."

For answer I gave her a letter which had just come to me from my friend, "Kid"—the girl who goes up and down the days looking for the little kindnesses which are everywhere for those who have eyes to see and minds to search.

All little things these. Yet the girl who observed them found great joy to seeing the fine side of things. And each of us can look about and interpret the little incidents of every day to prove the basic kindness of human nature.

Why not try? Each time you see an incident which renews your faith in life, you will find your attitude becoming clearer and your day brighter because you have fortified yourself in the eternal goodness of things.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Caused by Hydrochloric Acid

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyperacidity, because there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus sour stomach results in the stomach, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach. Then you feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Is Grandmother's Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your crowning glory. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture, you can get this famous old recipe improved by the additions of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautiful, dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Had not John D. Ryan, the Napoleonic head of Anaconda Copper, arranged to acquire control of the greatest foreign copper property in the world, Chile Copper, it would have fallen into the hands of British interests and given Britain a tremendous advantage in competing for world markets, not only for copper, but for machinery, implements, building material and a thousand other articles wholly or partly made of copper or brass.

When I talked to Mr. Ryan on this subject, he said, "Supposing British capital had acquired control of this great property, and instead of bringing this extremely low-priced copper to America, for manufacture, they had taken it across the Atlantic to British workshops, what would it have meant to the American people? With the exception of our own country, the British are the greatest metal working people in the world. What chance would there have been for America to compete in foreign countries with products manufactured in Britain from this low-priced copper?

"We are perhaps the only people in America who have the facilities to buy control of this huge Chilean property and to use its output advantageously.

"The heavy Chilean production that has come along in the last few years came at a time when copper metal markets were glutted with war stocks, war scrap, etc. What effect this has had upon the price of copper will be realized when it is noted that if copper were today selling on the average price level of the ten principal commodities entering into building construction, its price would be 27 cents a pound, according to the statistics of the Harvard economic service. As it is, it is now 28 per cent. below its pre-war price, whereas the other principal materials entering into building construction, brick, cement, lumber, steel, etc.—are 75 per cent. above pre-war prices.

"With the distribution of the unwieldy and burdensome stock of copper accumulated as an aftermath of the war, I look for a much better market.

"Business already is of tremendous volume. In fact we never experienced anything equal to it in pre-war times. The volume of copper going into consumption today exceeds the consumption of any year in history except the war boom years of 1916-17-18.

"I look for not only a very satisfactory volume of business, but for considerable improvement in the matter of price."

* * *

Mr. Ryan sees the coming of unprecedented development of coppers in the scheme of things in the future.

* * *

If it is permissible to refer to Rockefeller as the oil king, Duke as the tobacco king, and Ford as the automobile king of America, then it is permissible to describe John D. Ryan as the copper king of America.

No other man approaches him in power, in influence, or, it might even be said, ability, in the copper world or, for that matter, the brass world.

It is only a little over a year ago that he acquired for Anaconda control of the American Brass Company, by far the largest enterprise of its kind in the world, with a copper consuming capacity of 200,000,000 pounds a year and a zinc consuming capacity of 100,000,000 pounds a year. That deal involved something like $47,500,000.

And now he has secured control of easily the largest known bodies of developed and undeveloped copper ore in the world. The deal is said to involve $77,000,000 and the total financing planned by Anaconda is put at $150,000,000.

* * *

Mr. Ryan, like most of our industrial giants, has risen from the ranks, without any assistance from inherited wealth or even a college education. His first job was behind the counter of a mining camp store owned by his uncle in the copper district of Michigan. He did not like it, and migrated to Denver, where he tramped the streets for six months before he got his first job. He "I found employment to suit me—and I wasn't hard to suit either. Later, he became a drummer, selling lubricating oil all over the Rocky Mountain region from Montana to Texas.

Among the customers he dunned up was Marcus Daly, who was then building up the Anaconda organization. He repeatedly asked Ryan to come with him, but it wasn't until after Daly's death that Ryan became interested in Daly's interests, particularly his chain of hotels.

Henry Rogers, the Standard Oil veteran, spotted Ryan and got him to tackle the thorny job of running the Amalgamated Copper Company, then in the hotbed of hot water politically, competitively and labor-wise.

* * *

Ryan has become a bigger copper magnate than Rogers ever was. And those who know him best declare that he is only getting into his stride.

REPUBLIC STEEL TO PAY ON PREFERRED

Republic Iron & Steel Company has declared quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred stock payable April 2 to stock of record March 15. Chairman Topping said net profits for the quarter ended December 31, 1922, were about double dividend requirements on the preferred stock, and that future outlook for business and earnings was encouraging.

Usual time for dividend meeting would be in February, but, on account of absence of several directors and likelihood of no quorums for that meeting, action was taken this month.

Dividend was passed in February, 1922.

PROFIT-TAKING IN COTTON FUTURES

Strong cables from Liverpool reports that Russia was a buyer of spot cotton in the English market, and further optimistic advices from Manchester served to offset less favorable foreign political news and promoted an active buying movement in the New York cotton market. Prices were twenty to thirty-two points net higher later. Part of this upturn was lost in the hours commission house profit. January, 27.56; March, 27.87; May, 28.12; July, 27.83.

Wall St. Gossip

NATIONAL CITY CO. and Guaranty Co. of New York syndicate was in huge oversubscription and that books have been closed on $50,000,000 Anaconda Copper Mining Co. 20-year 7 per cent. convertible debentures offering.

SOUTHERN Railway and Coca-Cola are picked for a further advance under good market conditions.

PRESIDENT DODGE of International Paper Company says company will construct $7,000,000 water-power plant on St. John River at Grand Falls, N. B., provided it can sell sufficient power. New Brunswick government likely to develop site if company does not.

SOUTHERN Pacific is still being acquired by investment interests and looks as if it might be good also for an upturn without a particularly long wait, with continuances of bull market.

BROOKLYN Rapid Transit reorganization plan is not expected for several weeks. The present proposition is for a 5% assessment, for which collateral trust 6 per cent. bonds would be given.

LOFT, Inc., is expected to show earnings for the year of over $1 a share.

DIRECTORS of Bethlehem Steel are scheduled to meet for dividend action on January 25 and announce a statement of earnings for 1922.

WIMPHEIMER Silk Mill at New Haven has been sold to American Velvet Company, which has Stonington, Ct., plant with 600 employees. Price paid was about $300,000.

BEREELDEN Silk Mill at Bethel, Ct., has renewed operations after having been idle for months. Ten looms will be run and more added as needed.

GIMBEL Brothers has been under accumulation in belief dividend payment will come before long.

Boston Notes

COMBINED net earnings available for common dividends of subsidiary companies of Massachusetts Gas Companies for December were $266,706, increase of $69,289 or 22.20 per cent., compared with corresponding month a year ago.

PORTION of about $3,000,000 each employee of Endicott Johnson Corporation qualifying for bonus will receive under profit sharing arrangement, will be announced early next week.

UNITED Fruit Company, indicates net profits for the year after all charges and taxes of approximately $15,000,000, equivalent to $19 a share upon the 1,000,000 share capital. In 1921 the company earned just under $17 a share.

AMERICAN Woolen Company has acquired property of the Strathmore Worsted Mills at Concord Junction.

VENTURA is getting 2 cents per gallon less for its gasoline and selling from 60,000 to 70,000 gallons daily. Reduction in price has been more than offset by steadiness in fuel oil prices and reduction in price it pays as royalty to land owners on which its wells are located.

BOSTON & MAINE appears to have failed to earn all charges in 1922 by about $600,000; as compared with previous recent years this is not a bad showing, and outlook for current year is that road will do much better.

U. S. WORSTED'S incorporators are: Herbert A. Jones, Dorchester, president of the corporation; Frederick C. Stone, Atlantic, vice-president and treasurer, and Arthur J. Waterman, Dorchester, clerk and assistant treasurer.

SOME BOSTON brokers weren't particularly delighted over the listing of United Shoe on the New York Curb. That it will go on the major board later seems likely.

MANAGING DIRECTOR FLATTERY of Lowe's Boston Theatres Company, says business was especially good during last half of 1922. That company expects to maintain common dividends at present rate, though it may be raised if business increases.

BRISTOL Manufacturing Company, knitwear, at Bristol, Ct., has filed a petition with Secretary of State to change charter and to increase capitalization from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

STOCKS STRONG IN NEW YORK MARKET

Stocks were generally strong, though not very active, in transactions on the New York Stock Exchange.

Anaconda, after selling off on news it was planned to double output capital stock, made a good rally. At its low it sagged 2%.

New highs since 1921 and records were set by Beechnut, Hudson Motor and Piggly-Wiggly, the last-named up 5% at 61.

The failure of any material volume of offerings to materialize at the higher levels provoked more general buying in the afternoon, with the demand confined to a large extent to the industrials and specialties.

Motors and the accessory shares, rubbers, oils, cans and public utilities were in demand at considerably higher levels.

Among more noteworthy gains were Ohio Fuel 6 points, Reynolds Spring, Continental Can, Woolworth and Central Leather preferred 3 and Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Lehigh Valley, Coca Cola, Studebaker and Sloss Sheffield Steel preferred 2 to 2½.

Profit-taking in U. S. Steel after it crossed 106 forced it back to Wednesday's closing, but it then worked higher.

Renewed weakness of foreign bonds irregularity in the general list, and lower prices for U. S. government securities were outstanding developments in bond dealings.

Buy Your Own House by All Means. A Turtle Should Own Its Own Shell

A Woman Should Own Her Own House

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

A lady has bought a house and wonders whether she should pay off the mortgage. Here is her letter:

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—Through reading an editorial printed by you relative to owning one's home, I took all I had and bought a little house. I thank you for that editorial. And now I come to you for more advice, which will be carefully followed. The house is cleared, all but the first mortgage of $2,000.

Some advise that I clear it off. Others say let it stand. Am not much of a business woman, but I can figure that in ten years' time I will have paid over half the amount I owe on the first mortgage in interest alone, and I shall still owe the $2,000.

My income, like many others, is indefinite. I may have it for ten years and then, again, for only a few years. If it stopped and I had only paid off the interest on the first mortgage, perhaps I might lose all I invested in this little place.

Please advise me and give reasons. A grateful reader. MRS. F. J. McC.

Madam, pay your mortgage, and as quickly as you can. Nothing is more important to you than that.

A turtle and a snail should each own its SHELL. A woman should own her HOME. A turtle without a shell would not be much worse off than a woman without a safe and permanent residence.

There are millions of such women, unfortunately.

Sometimes men engaged in business let a mortgage stand because the money that would pay it off can be more profitably used in other ways. But for a woman, the first thing is A HOME FREE AND CLEAR.

If you lose your other income, you always have a place to live; you may rent part of your house when fortune and other things fail.

Every woman, especially if she depends upon herself, should keep the word "Mortgage," of which the literal meaning is "Death gage," as far away from her as possible.

And, by the way, every husband worth while should make it his business to see that his wife OWNS HER OWN HOUSE. It sounds a great deal better to hear a man say, "This is my wife's house," rather than, "This is MY house."

The mother makes the home, provides the children, and the least the father can do is to see that she OWNS that home and is permanently safe in it.

Even Henry Ford Makes Mistakes

That May Cheer You

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

It cheers inferior mortals to learn that great men occasionally make mistakes. To read Rousseau's "Confessions" is dreary work. But at the end you know that a fool in some ways may be a giant in others.

Turning from Napoleon crossing the Alps triumphantly to Napoleon trudging his weary way back through the snows of Russia you feel that YOUR failures may have come first, just as Napoleon's came last.

In modern days you may find comfort in that wonder-worker and really great builder, Henry Ford. He built a big smelting plant at River Rouge, to be independent of the steel people, in part. A great engineer said: "Henry Ford spent forty-eight millions on a plant that could easily be built for twelve millions figuring iron costs today about $12 a ton and Ford has an 'overhead' of $15 on every ton he can produce."

If Henry Ford can make a dismal failure here and there, you may recover from your mistakes.

Coal Cars Side-Tracked

New England-Bound Fuel Stands Idle for Lack of Engines in Proper Repair

It is reported to the Boston American that recently a count was made of the number of cars loaded with hard coal destined to New England on the New Haven sidetracks at Maybrook, N. Y. The count revealed the startling fact that there were more than 1,500 cars of hard coal lying idly on those tracks for want of engines in proper repair to move them into New England, where we are freezing for lack of coal. Assuming that a car contains fifty tons, there are over 75,000 tons of coal doing nobody any good on the sidetracks of the New Haven, because the New Haven Railroad has not engines in good enough condition to haul them. There are also more than 2,000 other cars on these sidings and we understand that the New Haven is only able to move two freight trains a day from that place.

Yet the New Haven is pretending that it has all the repairmen it needs. It has refused to take back its old employes in the repair shops. It is one of the few eastern roads which have not compromised the shopmen's strike and it is still refusing to take back the 5,000 men who went on a strike some months ago.

The public is being made to pay not only in money but in health and comfort for this attempt of Wall Street to "deflate labor," as they call it. How long are we going to pay these high prices to allow Wall Street to use our railroads not only for stock gambling purposes, but to carry out their economic views concerning labor? This is an emergency as grave to New England as the emergency which confronted the government during the war when the railroads failed to do their duty under private management.

What are our New England representatives in Congress doing about it? If every man whose house is cold today would make up his mind that he is going to find out what his Congressman is doing and would spend two cents for a stamp and a cent for an envelope and would take ten minutes of his time to write to his Congressman, he would find that the question would soon be settled. It is this grumbling and growling and never doing anything that gets us nowhere and that lets the country drift and drift and grows worse and worse.

NEW CASTLE GARDEN CLUB

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

HORROR of horrors! did you know it? James J. Davis, United States Secretary of Labor, is an immigrant.

And proud of it, too!

For he proposes the formation of "The Castle Gardeners," an organization of men (why not women, too?) who entered America through Castle Garden.

Not so long ago, that castellated structure at Manhattan's tip, which now is a most interesting aquarium, was New York city's immigrant station.

"This new organization some day will rank with those patriotic organizations which embrace the descendants of the original immigrants who braved the seas in the historic Mayflower to find freedom in this new land."

The Secretary of Labor has further indicated the purpose of this association: "To perpetuate the rights, privileges and responsibilities which were conferred on us when we entered the United States, and to protect and safeguard those rights, privileges and responsibilities for those who will come after us."

There looms before you Castle Garden—and Opportunity. Does not your heart leap within you as you set foot on the "land of the pilgrim's pride"?

Indeed, quite as lovingly as in the breasts of those for whom this is the "land where their fathers died!"

London Fares Reduced

LONDON, Jan. 18.—It is estimated that the population of London will save over $5,000,000 in carfare this year owing to reductions in fares on the subways, omnibuses and street cars which came into force on January 1.

Subway and omnibus services in London are operated on the zone or stage system, the usual method being to charge 3 cents for three stages, with the 5-cent fare as the minimum. The 5-cent "any distance" fare, as operated in New York, is unknown in London.

Briefly, under the new schedule the Londoner can now travel one more stage for the same fare.

Let Them Walk

Editor Boston American:

Is the Mayor so overwhelmed with his importance of position that he deems it necessary to tear down the centre of our business life by placing a wide street through an unnecessary portion of the city? If relief is needed from congestion the proper way to handle the same is to compel all autos to make a circle of the city through the new and expensive Stuart street, down to Atlantic avenue, around by the North Station, up over the hill to Charles street. There are more workers than autoists. The people are beginning to growl, and once in France they growled for bread. Why should the aristocrats ride and monopolize the highways, which belong to the walking public? Is there any reason why they cannot get out at a certain spot and walk with the rest of the common people?

JOHN PAUL JONES.

Judge Not

Editor Boston American:

In reply to the letter recently published in your paper signed "Back Bay," I should like to ask her why the executions of the man and woman that took place in England a few days ago be a subject for discussion? They sinned, but they suffered, as all God's creatures must who break His commandments. The woman who is blamed the more of the two by the writer may not have been reared by Christian parents, but may have been the child of degenerates. If so, less should be expected of this woman. But let it be as it may. The woman has suffered and has paid the penalty. Why not let the dead rest, and let God be her judge, and not a woman?

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally

Would Display Wares

Editor Boston American:

I read the article about women with novelties and embroideries and I would like to get in touch with them. I have a store and I could display and sell articles for them if they are of worth.

L. L. C.

ED. NOTE—Any of those who would like to take advantage of this offer should write to the Helping Hand, and they will be put in touch with each other.

Wants a House

Editor Boston American:

Your column seems to be able to supply any want, so I am bringing mine, which may be unreasonable. At least, I'll forgive you if you magic fairy now. All I want is a house. Is someone going to move out in a month or two, of a half or single house of five, six or seven rooms? I want at least a two-by-four yard, some improvements and a dry roof, moderate rent. I have two tiny grand-daughters. My references are good, and I have a steady income. The babies will not be with me long. I am in poor health and cannot go house-hunting. From $20 to $25 is my limit, unless in a locality where a room is easily let.

HOUSEHUNTER.

ED. NOTE—A limited experience in house-hunting suggests that you will have to modify your requirements or sleep in a tent, but we'll see what other readers say.

Stroller

Editor Boston American:

I have a baby's stroller in good condition that I would like to exchange for a baby carriage.

MRS. W. M. R.

Would Give Dress

Editor Boston American:

I am the mother of six children in need of $15 immediately. I have a new brown one-piece dress of silky material, size 36 to 40, never worn, a small parlor stove, a new brown petticoat and an infant's knitted bonnet, all of which I would sell for $15.

MRS. E. A. H.

Has a Foxhound

Editor Boston American:

I have a full-blooded foxhound. I will give to someone for a coat for a girl fourteen and some clothes to fit a little girl.

MRS. C. C. R.

Wants Washing

Editor Boston American:

I would like very much to get the addresses of some ladies who would send their washing to me by parcel-post. It is dried in the sunshine, and I do it by piecework for a reasonable price.

MRS. B. S.

NOISY FIREMEN IN TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 18. —When Mustapha Kemal comes he will find his capital intact, thanks largely to the British Fire Brigade, which saves Constantinople at least once a day, and there are usually matinees on Sundays.

The first evening I was in this city I heard shouts without; it was the Turkish Fire Brigade shouting without its engine. Down the hill they came, about fifteen men, all stripped for action, like Marathon runners. In the centre of the group four runners carried a hand pump suspended on poles which rested on the shoulders of the men. Others merely shouted. Bare legged, bare armed, bare headed, the Fire Eaters of Constantinople squelched through the mud of Pera.

This morning at the corner of Pera street I saw the return of the Fire Eaters. They were not running, merely trotting, and were not shouting, merely chanting, what I took to be their well-known war song, ". . . and another little fire wouldn't do us any harm."

Very Rowdy Poker but Little Prospect of Gun-Play

By Herbert Kaufman

THE real news is between the lines. This is how it reads: "Very rowdy poker, but little prospect of gun-play. Stiff bluff without the chips to back it. Showdown inevitable. No cash behind the game. Financiers refuse to take a hand. Gold is not moving to the front. No profit in a war between insolvents."

Money is the real field marshal. You can't use armies without weapons and rations. Until wheat, munitions, copper and cotton stocks received marching orders and start swaggering through the ticker, yonder situation isn't serious. Countries don't reduce debts and promote big industrial operations on the eve of trouble.

Quite a Tidy Sum

IF England, canny observer, were alarmed, she'd not be negotiating a settlement of her debt.

Bonar Law thinks that his government should borrow at the same rate ours does. He insists that 3½ per cent. is ample interest on the British notes. Multiplied by four billions, it's quite a tidy sum at that.

He offers to pay us in bonds—they're good. National bonds are the same as national flags. They carry the peoples' honor on the face. The British flag flies over a full fourth of the globe and a trifle over one-fourth of its inhabitants. Figure what a quarter slice of the earth is worth and you'll agree that the empire's I. O. U. is reasonably secured.

Now It Can Be Told

WHAT'S harder to comprehend is why the public, which means you, was not informed that his majesty's treasury announced that, at the time of borrowing, it would be years before principal or interest could be met.

Lord Balfour warned Claude Kitchen, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, that the allies would probably not pay us a cent in ten years. Kitchen told Lane. This is one of the things the Lane letters don't tell.

How the Trick Is Mixed

THE Anaconda Copper Company bought the Chili mines for $150,000,000. Be assured, Anaconda didn't borrow at 3½ per cent. Wall Street has no such bargain basement.

The Guggenheim family gets most of the $150,000,000. Guggenheim, Sr., once sold spices and victoria, a substitute for coffee around Philadelphia. From spices to laces, from laces to smelters. Observe how the trick is mixed. Colorado sent one of his sons to the Senate. Ask the Guggenheim boys what they think of poor men's chances here!

When J. P. Thrilled the Nation

BUT reckless Congresses have so habituated us to the use of billions that mention of a tupenny hundred and fifty million doesn't pull a gasp. Time was when the deal might have been a seven days' wonder. J. P. Morgan actually thrilled the press by raising the staggering sum of fifty million dollars for Washington. Dollars were real "iron men" then; they toted home three square meals per diem and had enough strength left to take the children to shoe store and clothing shop, drop in on the landlord, visit the doctor and even leave a bit with the receiving teller. Many a respected citizen decently maintained his household and educated his youngsters on ten of them a week.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE ASTRONOMERS

By Garrett P. Serviss

ASTRONOMY has made such vast strides in the past few years, and the proportion of the American contribution to this advance has been so large, that at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at the close of December, in Boston, there was no more interesting scene than that presented by a room full of American astronomers listening to the reading of one another's papers on their latest observations and speculations and asking one another questions about the things overhead.

Looking over the crowded assemblage from a point of vantage, and studying the heads and faces, I asked myself whether it was possible to recognize any average distinctive trait that would serve to point out an astronomer among other men engaged in intellectual pursuits.

It was a fascinating amusement. Again and again I imagined that I had hit upon an habitual facial expression or a type of skull structure that suggested the clue that I was seeking, but after a careful study I arrived at the conclusion that the lofty flight of the astronomer's mind and the impractical or abstract nature of his occupation leaves no outward tokens that can be recognized.

The roomful of heads and faces was not, I am bound to confess, more impressive or more suggestive of mental superiority than is any similar roomful of educated people whose occupations are not ranked as especially intellectual.

In fact, I believe that astronomers, as far as can be judged, from this representative gathering, are notably less lacking in distinctive traits than are poets and artists. The majority of the astronomers would pass for ordinary business men, or "men in the street."

The head of a Henry Ford supposedly contains a ready reference diagram of a gasoline motor; that of a Marshal Foch, the plan of a campaign or the tactics of a battle; that of a big merchant, a picture of high piles of salable goods, and a continual flocking and re-flocking of crowds of customers; while the astronomer's head is a gallery of the stars and of things celestially remote from the ordinary walks of man. Yet, no astronomer that I have met could be surely selected as such by any of the rules of physiognomy or phrenology.

I saw astronomers of great authority and achievement, whose faces, I asked myself whether it was possible to recognize any average distinctive trait that would serve to point out an astronomer among other men engaged in intellectual pursuits.

One looks like a prosperous business man who never heard of the planet Jupiter or solved an equation of the second degree. Another is as round and jolly as Charles James Fox, suggesting no starry problems, but rather plentiful enjoyment of the good things of this annual, but for him quite sufficient world.

But all of these men, and many others who are their peers, will leave their names high on the roll of fame, and some of them will be remembered and their names will be repeated with admiration long after the practical masters of the world in their day are mostly forgotten. But neither Lavater nor Gall, if living today, could catalogue them on sight by either the expression of their faces or the size or shape of their heads.
